188 FLEET STREET : February 2, 1880.

ALTHOUGH the modern history of literature in Rome has been more frequently noteworthy for the repressive action of the Pope and the too numerous inscriptions of foreign works upon the Index, it seems that Pio Nono's successor is inclined to treat men of the pen with greater liberality, and not merely to welcome their works at the Vatican, but to give them facilities for consulting the unrivalled library which His Holiness possesses. Leo XIII. intends, we are told, to publish the numerous catalogues of the Vatican Library, and has entrusted to a commission, with De Rossi, the eminent archæologist, as its assessor, the task of carrying out his design. Furthermore than this, His Holiness has expressed his willingness to give authors and bibliophiles a privilege which will have an immediate value, in the permission to consult the books and MSS. in the Vatican Library, in a chamber which is to be specially set apart for the use of readers and students. Hitherto the library, with its countless rooms, has been mainly visited by travellers as one among the numberless attractions of the seven-hilled city, but henceforth men with more practical aims will be found within its portals, and it is difficult to exaggerate the importance of the change in the régime. The MSS. of the ancient classic authors are of priceless value, and we cordially second the suggestion recently made in the Times, that photographs of the most rare of these treasures should be taken. No difficulty would be found in securing from literary men and antiquarians in the chief cities of Europe sufficient funds to enable this project to be carried to a successful issue, even if the governments of the various countries declined to take part in a scheme which would enable them, at a comparatively small outlay, to add very largely to the treasures of their national collections.

Professor Nordenskjöld's visit to Japan has borne literary as well as scientific fruit, in the shape of a valuable collection of Japanese works, purchased for him at the numerous book-stalls where old books are sold in Yokohama, Tokio, and even Kioto. Professor Nordenskjöld adds that the present moment is most favourable to preserve from destruction Japanese books, and, in fact, many other articles of Japanese produce, which if not very speedily secured will soon disappear, as, owing to the late 'Europeanising' of Japan by the revolutions which have given to the Mikado absolute power, everything relating to the 'good old times' is at a discount, and family libraries are sold to serve as waste-paper, while old armour and old weapons go to the rag and bone shops. Professor Nordenskjöld thinks that even within a few years the library which he has bought will be of the very highest value. The number of books secured amounts to 1,036, but as each volume on an average contains only 100 pages, the number of volumes exceeds 6,000, of which history is represented by 176 volumes; treatises on Buddhism and education, 161; the Sinto-Sectarian religion, 38; Christianity (printed in 1715), 1; habits and customs, 33; plays, 13; love, 5; Statecraft and political pamphlets (mostly new and secretly printed, being in opposition to the new state of affairs in Japan), 24; poetry, 137; heraldry, archæology, and ceremony (good manners), 27; the art of war and fencing, 41; chess, 1; numismatics, 4; dictionaries and grammars, 18; geography and geographical maps, 76; natural history, 68; medical works, 13; algebra, astronomy, and astrology, 38; trades and farming, 43; books containing patterns, 73; gardening, 16; bibliography, 9; miscellaneous, 20. Most of the books are provided with innumerable drawings, some of them perfect masterpieces; while the 73 pattern books will not only be of infinite value to the history of art, but will also be of great use to different branches of industry. Some of the poems, the works for the theatres, and the old traditions are undoubtedly of the highest value to the student of what may already now be called the past of Japan.

The work of the Index Society is, we are glad to learn from a letter from 'An Index Lover,' in the Pall Mall Gazette, not only flourishing, but is producing fruits which show that its members are anxious to make it a really useful society, instead of allowing it to become a merely social or ornamental institution. The society has, during its short existence, issued three volumes. The first of these, 'What is an Index?' by Mr. Wheatley, the honorary secretary, is well described in the report as 'a sort of manifesto' of the society's aim and objects, and to it have been added a series of 'Rules for Indexing' drawn up for the purpose of securing uniformity in the publications of the society. This has been followed by an 'Index of the names of the Royalists whose estates were confiscated during the Commonwealth.' The value of such an index, which has been carefully drawn up by Miss Peacock, will readily be acknowledged by historical students. The third volume is an index of municipal offices by Mr. Gomme, who has lately been working very diligently and successfully at the hitherto almost disregarded history of the rise and origin of our municipal institutions, many of which have fallen into desuetude. This gentleman, whose researches promise to throw new and important light upon the communal institutions of our progenitors, has undertaken to prepare for the society an Index to Kemble's 'Saxons in England,' as Mr. Jesson has to Dugdale's 'Warwickshire;' the Rev. W. Kendall to Hutchins' 'Dorset;' and Mr. Bailey to Walker's 'Sufferings of the Clergy.' Among other important indexes in hand, the report announces 'An Index of British Existing, Dormant, and Extinct Hereditary Titles of Honour,' by Mr. Solly; and one of 'English Topography,' by Mr. Harrison. Three useful and interesting indexes, being too small for separate publication, are printed as appendixes to the present report. The first of these is an 'Index to Books and Papers on Marriage between Near Kin,' by Mr. Huth, a well-known authority on this subject. The second is an 'Index of the Styles and Titles of Sovereigns of England,' by Mr. De Gray Birch, which index is arranged—1, under the titles; 2, chronologically under the names of the Sovereigns. And the index by Mr. Solly, which will form a useful contribution towards a General Index of British Portraits, contains 'Indexes of Portraits in the European and London Magazines, and Register of the Times.' From this brief summary of what the society has done or contemplates doing, it will we think be readily admitted that it has made good its claim, not only to existence but to the support of all who are interested in such matters.

Molière has found a staunch apologist among the Teutons in the person of Herr Ferdinand Gross, who, in a communication to the Moliériste, a French monthly periodical, gives some interesting details concerning the trans-Rhenish cultus of his favourite author. Against the rather narrow and silly criticisms of Augustus Schlegel, Herr Gross is glad to set the well-known and far wiser remarks of Goethe; and the opinion of Heinrich Laube, a noted German playwright, that Molière should be banished from the stage, is confronted with the devotion of Professor Stengel, who founded a Moliéresque chair at Marburg University. Herr Gross also instances in this connection the enthusiasm of Paul Lindau, the dramatist, and the action of a certain Herr Schweitzer—'a venerable old man, whose whole life had been devoted to the study of Molière.' Herr Schweitzer is the founder and editor of Molière und Seine Bühne, a sort of German Moliériste.

Almost simultaneously, two books, written at an interval of nearly 200 years, have been published at Copenhagen, the subject treated in both being the national character of the Danes. The first is a translation of 'An Account of Denmark as it was in the year 1692,' written by Sir Robert Molesworth, who, during three years, represented Great Britain at the Court of King Christian V. Sir Robert Molesworth was an Irish Protestant, who, having attempted to preach English doctrines in the then Irish Parliament, was obliged to leave Ireland. He was afterwards sent by the British Government as Ambassador to Denmark, to negotiate for the services of a few thousand Danish soldiers, to act as an auxiliary corps in Ireland. He remained three years in Denmark; but his pretensions, his 'Irish bulls,' and his unbridled passions, made him at last impossible, and he was recalled, when he wrote his 'Account,' in which he calls attention to the then already prevailing extraordinary sharpness—the Americans would call it 'cuteness'—of the lower class, the mediocrity of the middle and upper classes—'nobody caring to leave the beaten track left by their ancestors;' and, especially, to the extraordinary conceit of the nation, nobody for one moment acknowledging that there can be anything 'rotten in the state of Denmark;' the nation, like their kings, thinking that 'We alone know.' The second publication is by M. Raaslöf, Privy Councillor, ex-Minister of War, and ex-Danish Minister at Washington, called 'Der Dänische National Karakter,' published in the Deutsche Rundschau. The opinion which M. Raaslöf, himself a Dane, has formed about his countrymen, tallies very nearly with that formed by Sir Robert Molesworth two hundred years ago. The popularity of the Princess of Wales, and the increasing interest taken by Englishmen in all that concerns Denmark, would make a translation of these works welcome among the books of the season.

The scheme for the establishment of the Grosvenor Library has already involved its promoters in a vexatious piece of litigation, proceedings having been taken by Mr. Hoby, of Chapel Street, Belgrave Square, before Vice-Chancellor Hall, to restrain the Company from using the title 'Grosvenor Library,' on the ground that for ten years he had carried on a circulating library under that name. The question submitted for his honour's decision was, it must be admitted, a very 'nice' one, using the term in its old-fashioned sense, for it was obvious that it could only be on the plea of damage through propinquity of the new library under the same name that the injunction could fairly be asked for. Mr. Hoby stated in his evidence that he had a number of distinguished persons among his customers, and that his reason for calling his library by the name in question was that his place of business was situated at about the centre of the Grosvenor estate, and also had always enjoyed the patronage of some members of the Grosvenor family. The defendant company, whose business is to be carried on in Bond Street, resisted the motion, on the ground that the plaintiff's user of the name had not been widely known; and that, having regard to the distance of his establishment from Bond Street, and the special character of the company's undertaking, no injury could arise to him from their adopting the proposed name. The Vice-Chancellor's decision, based upon the evidence of Mr. Hoby's use of the coveted title, was that no person had a right to carry on the same business in that name so as to interfere with him. The addition of the word 'limited' did not, in his lordship's opinion, make the name a different one, and what the defendants were doing was calculated to interfere with the business of the plaintiff. The injunction was therefore granted. Whether this decision will be accepted without appeal remains to be seen, but it seems to us that, if allowed to remain unchallenged, it would form a somewhat inconvenient precedent.

On Monday week a numerous audience had the privilege of hearing Mr. G. A. Spottiswoode give an account of his recent travels in Southern Italy, which included a month's sojourn in the Island, of Ischia one of the items in an earthly paradise of which Naples is the centre. We say privileged, because non civis homini contingit adire Corinthum; few of us have the means or the leisure to get to Southern Italy, the proper appreciation of which would also demand reading that men of business have rarely time for. Passing lightly over the earlier stages of the journey, the tunnel of Mont Cenis was graphically described as like the underground railway, if imagined without stoppages; the aspect of Naples and its inhabitants was briefly sketched; the hearers were taken round the Island of Ischia and introduced to its amiable inhabitants; a visit to a Benedictine monastery was described; and Pompeii was placed before the audience by means of efficient coloured diagrams, assisted by picturesque detail. Among other interesting matters, it was mentioned that, to preserve them, the frescoes had to be removed from the walls at Pompeii, and placed in the Museo Borbonico at Naples, which is otherwise the most wonderful collection of objects illustrating the buried cities. Amid a number of scenes made vivid by word painting and historic illustration, we are inclined to prefer the ascent of Mount Vesuvius, the description of the crater, general constitution of volcanoes, and the wondrous panorama beheld from the top of the mountain, whose giant shadow withdrew from the landscape before the advancing sun. To entertain an audience thus for two hours was no mean physical effort, and the thanks of the hearers were awarded by acclamation. We have only to add that the Chairman was Mr. W. Spottiswoode, the President of the Royal Society, who, in a few happy and appropriate words, introduced the lecture and terminated the proceedings.

Messrs. Macmillan & Co. are publishing an Art Annual, compiled by Marcus B. Huish, LL.B., and professing to give 'a concise epitome of all matters relating to the arts of painting, sculpture, and architecture,' which have occurred during the year 1879.

Messrs. J. & R. Maxwell, of Shoe Lane, wish us to name the fact as to a change of name in Miss Braddon's lately published 'Story of Barbara.' It was commenced in the World under the title 'Splendid Misery,' which, in consequence of a claim to prior use, was altered to 'Her Gilded Cage,' the intermediate denomination 'Her Splendid Misery' being thought scarcely distinct enough to avert the consequences of an injunction. The authoress hopes that the promised revision of the copyright laws will provide some inexpensive remedy for the way in which injunctions now press on those who have unfortunately used a forgotten title.

Dr. Littledale's new work on Romanism, published by the Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge, is, we hear, having a very large sale on both sides of the Atlantic.

A third edition of 'Sister Dora' has been issued by Messrs. C. Kegan Paul & Co. The same firm announces for immediate publication several important works, including 'England under Lord Beaconsfield, a Political History of Six Years, 1874-80,' by P. W. Clayden; and 'Recollections of Workhouse Visiting and Management during Twenty-five Years,' by Louisa Twining.

The third and fourth volumes of Mr. Hepworth Dixon's 'Royal Windsor,' completing the work, will be issued immediately by Messrs. Hurst & Blackett.

Messrs. Hurst & Blackett will publish in February 'A Sylvan Queen,' by the Author of 'Rachel's Secret' &c., in 3 vols.; and 'Lily of the Valley,' by Mrs. Randolph, in 3 vols.

Messrs. Marcus Ward & Co. send us an assortment of new valentines. Among them may be noted a double scented sachet, opening like a book, dimensions about 6 by 4 inches, with a dainty picture on each side and inside; gold-bordered cards of single pictures, about 6 by 5 inches; a double sachet, like the before-mentioned, about 6½ by 5 in size before opening; floral, verse, pictorial, and double pictorial cards, varying in size from 7 by 6 inches downwards. These latter are in great variety, and prettily executed.

Messrs. Griffith & Farran will shortly publish a new book by the Author of 'Mrs. Jerningham's Journal,' entitled 'Very Genteel.' It is a tale for girls, and will be issued in the popular series of 'Stories for Daughters at Home.'

Mrs. J. F. B. Firth, author of 'Sylvia's New Home,' has written a story entitled 'More than Coronets,' which Messrs. Griffith & Farran will publish during the coming spring season.

'The Bicycle Road Book,' a complete guide to the Roads of England, Scotland, and Wales, which has been so long compiling by Mr. Chas. Spencer, the well-known author of 'The Modern Gymnast,' &c., is now, we learn, nearing its completion. It will be published by Messrs. Griffith & Farran early in March next. We understand that the author has been at great pains and expense to furnish a list of the best hotels and notable places in each journey, giving a great deal of information in a very small compass that will be found most valuable to the bicyclist.

Mr. Elliot Stock announces a series of 'Early Reprints for English Readers,' edited by the Rev. Herbert E. Reynolds, librarian of Exeter Cathedral; the first number will be from John Gerson. The same house is about to publish a reproduction of 'Eikon Basilike,' with an extended preface by Mr. Edward Scott, of the British Museum, and a facsimile of the unmutated frontispiece from the first edition.

Messrs. A. S. Barnes & Co., of New York, send us a 'Writing Speller,' in three parts. They are what we in England call copy-books, only the usual ingenuity of our transatlantic brethren has been brought to bear upon the article, and spelling is taught simultaneously with writing; an idea which we hope will meet with success.

Messrs. Vizetelly & Co., of Southampton Street, Strand, are about to publish Mr. Edward Jenkins' new work, 'Ben changes the Motto,' illustrated by Mr. Sambourne. It is intended as a sequel to the 'Blot on the Queen's Head.'

The first two parts of the 'Contemporary History of Affairs in Ireland, from 1641 to 1652,' published by the Irish Archæological and Celtic Society, have just been issued.

At the extensive fire which occurred in Boston, U.S., on December 28, the plate of the etching of the portrait of Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, by the late William Morris Hunt, which was to have been the leading illustration in the January number of the American Art Review, was consumed. This will delay the publication of the English edition of the magazine.

According to one of the 'Specials' at the Cape, Sir Garnet Wolseley, notwithstanding his multifarious engagements, military and diplomatic, finds time occasionally to add a chapter to his 'Life of the Duke of Marlborough.'

Complete success has, we understand, attended the formation of the 'limited liability company which is henceforth to transact the business of Messrs. Chapman & Hall. Application for all the shares offered is said to have been received.

Miss Beata Francis, whose name is known as a contributor to serial literature and as the author of several popular works, published by Mr. Strahan, has also made a name for herself in the musical world, and on Wednesday evening gave a soirée at the Princes' Gardens which was fashionably attended.

The new monthly journal styled the Artist has, we hear, achieved a fair measure of success with its first number, and it will henceforth appear midway in each month, with Mr. William Reeves as its publisher. Its literary direction is in the capable hands of Mr. John Crowdy, who has been for many years on the staff of the Guardian, and the care with which it is edited does him infinite credit. In addition to essays and notes on artistic questions, the Artist presents a careful résumé of the criticisms which have appeared during the month upon the new works of well-known artists, and it also reviews new books bearing upon the subjects within its scope. The progress of foreign art is chronicled by competent correspondents in the principal European capitals. •

The most widely read article in the February magazines will probably be the narrative of the Zulu War, transcribed from the lips of Cetewayo, which appears in Macmillan. In Fraser, Principal Tulloch has enlisted his brother principal, Professor Shairp, who writes an appreciative and interesting article on the late Canon Mozley, a man whose merits were too little recognised during his lifetime, even in ecclesiastical circles. In the new number of the Quarterly Review one of the most attractive articles is based on Canon Ashwell's 'Life of Bishop Wilberforce, while as a political contribution, in full keeping with the traditions of Mr. Murray's serial, we have a timely article on 'Mr. Bright and the Duke of Somerset on Monarchy and Democracy.' The Edinburgh Review places last in its scheme an essay, which will doubtless be turned to first by many of its readers at the present juncture, on 'Plain Whig Principles,' and it has two other seasonable contributions on 'Russia Before and After the War,' and the 'Military Relations of Russia and England.' The Quarterly does not touch upon Ireland, but the Edinburgh deals with 'Her Present and Her Future,' and in the New Quarterly Magazine there is a paper on the 'Anti-Rent Agitation,' or, as it might perhaps be more truly termed, the 'Anti-paying-your-rent Agitation.' The Nineteenth Century numbers M. Loyson, better known as Père Hyacinthe, among its contributors this month, his subject being 'Paganism in Paris'; but probably the most eagerly scanned articles in the review will be Mr. Gladstone's on 'Free Trade, Railways, and Commerce,' and Mr. Archibald Forbes' on 'Lord Chelmsford and the Zulu War.' The Bishop of Manchester and Mr. Ruskin join in a 'duo' on 'Usury' in the Contemporary Review.

A weekly literary paper of high reputation allows 'a young man' to announce by advertisement in its columns that 'he would be glad to correspond in Pitman's shorthand with someone, also young, of either sex, who is familiar with the Higher Poetry, who has an ardent liking for, say, Shelley's 'Prometheus Unbound' and 'Epipsychidion,' or Swinburne's 'Songs before Sunrise.' The young man does not state what is his ulterior object.

It may be convenient to our readers to be reminded that the British Museum is closed from the 2nd to the 7th of February, both days inclusive.

Professor Seeley will commence next Friday afternoon a series of lectures at Hampstead Vestry Hall in connection with the Society for the Extension of University Teaching.

Since our last publication the following Publishers have issued books, full titles of which will be found in the New Book List :—

Messrs. W. H. Allen & Co.—D. C. Boulger's Central Asian Portraits, Celebrities of the Khanates.

Messrs. De La Rue & Co.—Ernestine, a Novel (by Wilhelmine von Hillern), with a Preface by Baring-Gould, 2 vols.

Messrs. Marcus Ward & Co.—Birthday Year, with Selections from the Poets.

AMERICAN NEWS AND NOTES.

Messrs. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York, have made arrangements for, and will commence immediately, the publication of a new edition of Washington Irving's Works, to be known as the 'Geoffrey Crayon' edition. This will be complete, and will be brought out in handsome octavo volumes, beginning with 'Knickerbocker's History of New York.' Each volume will contain new woodcut illustrations and steel plates, as far as the subject renders illustrations appropriate. With the first volume will be issued, as an introduction to the entire works, an 'Essay upon Irving,' by Charles Dudley Warner, prepared expressly for this edition, which is to present a summary of Irving's life and work, and a critical estimate of his position in literature.

A New York paper says: A valuable collection of Frankliana, made by Dr. Samuel A. Green, has been presented to the Boston Public Library. It includes one hundred and forty books and pamphlets by or about Benjamin Franklin; eighty portraits and engravings, some of them very rare; and a large number of most interesting autograph letters. The books include translations and varied editions, and many of them are seldom to be met with.

Messrs. Chas. Scribner's Sons, New York, will publish immediately two works by college presidents: viz., a treatise on 'The Emotions,' by Dr. McCosh, and Dr. T. D. Woolsey's work on 'Communism and Socialism.' This house have also nearly ready a book for Bible classes and Bible readers in general, called 'Studies in the New Testament,' by Dr. C. S. Robinson, well known by his widely circulated hymn-books, and a volume of sermons by Dr. Marvin R. Vincent, under the title 'Faith and Character.' The same firm have just issued Mr. Herbert Smith's 'Brazil: the Amazons and the Coast.' This work contains, both in text and illustrations, many additions to the papers which appeared in Scribner's Monthly during 1879. The author makes a study of the commercial facilities of the country in its cities, as well as of its physical features, and of the life of its people in town and on plantations, of the Indians in their villages, and their myths and folk-lore, natural history, and the more ordinary things that the average traveller notes. The sketches made by Mr. J. Wells Champney, who accompanied Mr. Smith on his last journey, furnish most of the illustrations. The London edition of this work will be published by Sampson Low & Co.

The North American Review for February will have an article on 'The Catholic Church and Modern Society,' by his Eminence Cardinal Manning, who here, we believe, makes his first appearance as a contributor to Protestant periodical literature. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are the recognised English agents for this magazine.

We understand that Dr. Robert Dwyer Joyce, author of 'Deirdrè' and 'Blaid,' is engaged in writing another poem, the subject and treatment of which are to be entirely different from those epics.

The American Sunday School Union of Philadelphia are about issuing a Union Quarterly, with maps, photographs of scenes of Palestine, and other popular features. The Sunday School World, published by the Union, was changed last month from a quarto newspaper into an octavo magazine, with illuminated cover, editorials on current topics, primary lessons, mission work, and other departments.

Mr. James Russell Lowell, the poet and critic, has been appointed by President Hayes, United States Minister at the Court of St. James's. For some years back Mr. Lowell has been United States Minister at the Court of Spain, as Washington Irving was, before his time. The new American minister is in no sense a stranger to us. Only the other night Sir Stafford Northcote was quoting one of his lines, from the immortal Hosea Biglow, the quaint philosopher and moralist, whose humours and shrewd sayings were once in the mouths of all Englishmen. Mr. Lowell's 'Biglow Papers' are his best known and most popular production, outside the limits of New England, at all events; but his graver poems have readers everywhere, and his delightful volumes of Essays, republished in this country, entitled 'Among my Books,' and 'My Study Windows,' may almost be said to form part of our own literature. Mr. Lowell is one of a number of men who have won a distinct and peculiar reputation in literature for their country, and who have made Harvard University and Cambridge, Massachusetts, places that all strangers in America love to see. Many of our readers will hear with pleasure of President Hayes's latest appointment. It may also be interesting to them to know that it is intended to bring out in England before long a collected edition of Lowell's 'Poetical Works,' handsomely printed in three crown octavo volumes. The poems will probably be re-arranged and corrected for this edition by the author himself.

The second number of the American Art Review just published by Estes & Lauriat, of Boston, contains a beautiful etching by Henry Farrer, entitled 'A Winter Landscape.' A short biography of that artist is also given. Mr. F. P. Vinton contributes personal reminiscences of the late W. M. Hunt, and Henry Van Brunt concludes his review of the plans offered for the completion of the monument to Washington. Mr. S. R. Koehler, the chief editor of the Review, has also a paper on the future of Art. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are the recognised English agents for this magazine. Terms on application.

Among the forthcoming books of Messrs. Henry Holt & Co., New York, will be 'The Child's Catechism of Common Things,' by J. D. Champlin, Jun., author of the 'Young Folks' Cyclopædia,' which has reached a third edition.

We have much pleasure in calling attention to the 'Illustrated Christmas Number' of the New York Publishers' Weekly, which vies not unsuccessfully with the London Bookseller and Publishers' Circular in its elegant presentation of sample plates, of criticisms upon the literary novelties of the season brought out by the publishers of America.

General Badeau, United States Consul-General, is making rapid progress with the concluding volume of the 'Life of General U. S. Grant,' of which the first volume appeared some years ago. The two volumes to complete the work will soon be published.

Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia, will soon contribute to pastoral theology a volume by the Rev. Gregory Thurston Bedell, D.D., of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Ohio. It is entitled 'The Pastor,' and has for a motto, 'Experientia Docens, Docet, Docuit.' The same firm have in the press 'A Refutation of Darwinism, and the Converse Theory of Development, based exclusively on Darwin's Facts,' by T. Warren O'Neil.

With the January number of the Penn Monthly, Philadelphia, the publishers began the issue of a weekly Supplement under the title of Penn Monthly Weekly Notes. The Notes will be devoted to comments on current news, and are under the charge of the present editors of the magazine. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are ready to receive subscriptions to this magazine. Terms on application.

Mr. George Stewart, jr., author of 'Canada under the Administration of the Earl of Dufferin,' 'History of the St. John's Fire,' 'Evenings in the Library,' &c., has been honoured with election to the International Literary Society of Paris, of which Victor Hugo is President, and whose membership embraces such names as Tennyson, Longfellow, Bancroft, Beaconsfield, Gladstone, Emerson, Castelar, and others. Mr. Stewart is the first Canadian to enjoy this honour.

By the fire which broke out at Boston on December 28th, we regret to record that the premises of Messrs. Houghton, Osgood, & Co. were totally destroyed. They lost so much of their stock as remained after the heavier sales of the season, and the whole of their Heliotype plant. The damage done is valued at £26,000, of which £15,000 is covered by insurance. The firm state, however, that only their bound books have been destroyed, the remainder of their stock being safe at the Riverside Press, Cambridge, Mass. Houghton, Osgood, & Co., a combination of the members of the two leading firms of Hurd & Houghton, and Fields, Osgood, & Co., are second to none of the American houses as publishers of distinctively American literature, and have done at least as much as any other house to give America a national literature. Any loss falling upon them will be a loss to the entire community, and will be felt sympathetically by all who love literature or honour those who have done honour to America in her literature.

The American News Company will have ready this month The American Almanack and Treasury of Facts for 1880, edited, as previously, by A. R. Spofford, Librarian of Congress. The new issue has been thoroughly revised, with the addition of a new calendar, tide tables for all seaports, enlarged lists of U.S. Government officers, with salaries in all cases, events and notable deaths of the year 1879, and latest statistics of foreign countries. The work will be made in two editions.

In their Monthly Literary Bulletin, Messrs. Scribner & Co., New York, say that St. Nicholas for December, of which three editions have already been sold, is again out of print, and a fourth edition is being prepared. It seems probable that nearly, if not quite 100,000 copies of this Christmas issue will have been disposed of before the sale is over. The supply of the bound volume of St. Nicholas for 1879 also gave out before Christmas, and this will be reprinted. Of the first volume (1874), there are left in the publishers' hands only about a dozen copies, and it seems likely soon to become one of the curiosities of literature. The regular monthly issue of St. Nicholas has now reached 70,000 in the United States. In the February number will appear two child-songs by Alfred Tennyson, one of them set to music, and both written specially by him for St. Nicholas. We believe this will be the first contribution Alfred Tennyson has ever made to an American magazine. The frontispiece to this number will be a reproduction, by permission, of the mezzotint engraving of Millais' painting of 'The Princes in the Tower.' And it will contain a fresh instalment of Louisa M. Alcott's new serial for boys and girls, entitled 'Jack and Jill.' Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are the English agents for this magazine. Terms and specimen number on application.

Messrs. Sheldon & Co., New York, will shortly publish 'The First Principles of Political Economy,' by Aaron L. Chapin, D.D. The work has been prepared expressly for the use of high schools and academies.

It is reported that Prof. Chadbourne, of Williams College, Massachusetts, is engaged in preparing and collating the material for a work on 'The Wealth of the United States.' It will be illustrated at great cost, and will be published simultaneously in four languages—English, French, German, and Spanish. The expenses attending the production of the work, which are estimated at £10,000 sterling, will be met by an association specially organised to promote the scheme.

The February number of the Atlantic Monthly will contain, in addition to its full quota of reading—including an instalment of Mr. W. D. Howell's new serial story, 'The Undiscovered Country'—a Supplement giving a full and authentic report of the breakfast given at the Hotel Brunswick, in Boston, on December 3, 1879, by the publishers, in honour of the 70th anniversary of the birthday of Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. It will include all the speeches and poems, with such description as is necessary to give an adequate idea of this memorable occasion.

'Modern Thinkers, principally upon Social Science: What They Think, and Why,' by Prof. V. B. Denslow, is the title of a new work which Messrs. Belfords, Clarke, & Co., Chicago, have in hand. It will be illustrated with portraits, and will have an introduction by Robert G. Ingersoll.

Mr. Henry J. Morgan's Dominion Annual Register and Review, Ottawa, Canada, which was begun last year, will be continued hereafter. The volume for 1879 will be ready this month.

Messrs. Bicknell & Comstock, New York, will publish at once 'Common Sense in Church Building,' by Mr. E. C. Gardner, the author of various popularly-written semi-architectural books. It claims to be no technical discourse upon church architecture, 'but a simple protest against certain false and inconsistent modes of building.'

A new magazine began life with the new year on the Pacific slope. It is called The Californian, and is published in San Francisco. The following are among the principal articles in the first number, viz., El Triunfo de la Cruz, by Theo. H. Hittell; The Western Thespian, by Mary T. Austin; A Modern Author—William D. Howells, by Minnie B. Phelps; The Pacific Coast and Geodetic Surveys, by Geo. Davidson; and a Tale of the Sierra Mojada, by D. S. Richardson.

Mr. Frederick Prime, Jun., has reprinted from the Transactions of the American Institute of Mining Engineers his 'Catalogue of Official Reports upon Geological Surveys of the United States and Territories, and of British North America.' It forms a pamphlet of 71 pages, of which 21 are devoted to the Rocky Mountain region. The arrangement is chronological.

The Philadelphia house of Mr. George W. Childs, which recently witnessed a very brilliant reception to General Grant, is one of the notable houses of America in a literary way. In it may be seen a large and rare library, rich with choice volumes, many of them bearing the presentation inscriptions or other autographs of their authors, as well as original manuscripts of great value by Cotton Mather, Hawthorne, Bryant, Byron, Burns, Pope, Schiller, Coleridge, and Charles Lamb; while the spacious rooms are fragrant with the associations of Dickens, Lord Houghton, Longfellow, Dean Stanley, Kingsley, Froude, Tyndall, Huxley, Bancroft, Holmes and Emerson, all of whom have been gathered at one time or another at Mr. Child's board.

The New York Times says:—'The announcement made by the Messrs. Appleton & Co., New York, that they intend to discontinue the retail branch of their business, marks an important event in the career of that house. The enterprise of the firm will then be turned wholly to the business of publishing. The greatest work put forth by the Appletons is the "American Cyclopædia." The first edition of this, in sixteen volumes, appeared in 1857-63, under the editorship of George Ripley and Charles A. Dana. The second edition was published in 1873-76, with the same editors, and in the same number of volumes, excepting that the Index is an additional volume. It has doubtless proved one of the most profitable enterprises ever undertaken by the house. Of the second edition alone there have been sold more than 50,000 sets of sixteen volumes each, or upwards of 800,000 volumes, not including the index. Entirely distinct from the "American Cyclopædia," but not less useful in its way, is the "Annual Cyclopædia," of which a volume has been published yearly since 1861, under the editorship of Mr. W. J. Tenney. Perhaps the most important among recent enterprises of the Appletons are "Picturesque America" and "Picturesque Europe." The sales of the former, although a costly publication, have been immense. All of the works which we have named have been offered to the public by the publishers only through canvassing agents. The same firm will publish immediately a work by Mr. Henry George, of San Francisco, entitled 'Progress and Poverty: an Inquiry into the Cause of Industrial Depressions and of Increase of Want with Increase of Wealth.' A limited number of copies for private distribution have already been printed at San Francisco. It is said the author's doctrines are on several fundamental topics at variance with those of most European economists.

OBITUARY.

The death of Canon Oakley, one of the earliest 'verts from the Anglican to the Roman Communion, took place at Duncan Terrace, Islington, on the 29th ult. Canon Oakley had published many books, chiefly explanatory of the doctrines and devotions of the Roman Church. He contributed to the Dublin Review a series of papers on the Tractarian movement, which were republished in a volume in 1865.

We regret to announce the death of the Rev. George Smith Drew, M.A., Vicar of Holy Trinity, Lambeth, whose name was well known in literary circles. Mr. Drew, who took high honours at Cambridge, was in 1869-70 select preacher at the University, and in 1877 Hulsean Lecturer. He was the author of many works on religious topics, amongst which were 'Scripture Lands,' 'Nazareth, its Life and Lessons,' 'The Son of Man, his Life and Ministry,' 'Reasons of Faith,' 'Ecclesia Dei,' 'Colenso's Pentateuch Examined,' &c. He was also a writer in the Contemporary Review and other periodicals. At one period he travelled much in the Holy Land and adjacent countries, and was a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, and an active member of the British Association. Mr. Drew died suddenly on the 21st ult., and was buried at Nunhead on the 26th.

We regret to record the decease of Mr. Thomas Knapp, who was one of the most constant business friends of the Publishers' Circular. He died at Acock's Green, near Birmingham, on the 17th ult., in the sixty-fourth year of his age, and was buried at St. Mary's Church, Acock's Green.

Mme. May Alcott Nieriker, youngest daughter of Bronson Alcott, of Concord, Mass., died in Paris, December 30, aged about 40. She was the sister of Miss Louisa M. Alcott, the author, and was best known to the public as being the original of one of the characters in Miss Alcott's famous 'Little Women.' Two or three years ago she came to Europe to study painting, having already studied under the late William M. Hunt, of Boston, U.S. In 1878 she met in London Mr. Ernest Nieriker, son of a Swiss banker, and married him. She advanced rapidly in her studies, and executed several works, which were exhibited in the Paris Salons of 1878 and 1879. She was also the author of a little work recently published in Boston, U.S., entitled 'Studying Art Abroad, and how to do it Cheaply.'

The death is announced of Professor Siegfried, of the University of Zürich, the author of some important works on the geography and geology of Switzerland.

The Rev. Gilbert Haven, one of the most active and widely-known bishops of the U.S. Methodist Episcopal Church, died January 3, at his birthplace, in Malden, Mass., aged 58. He was conspicuous for his eloquence and for his zeal in social and political reforms. He was a strenuous abolitionist, for some time editor of Zion's Herald, an agent of the U.S. Government in the interests of the freedmen, and finally Bishop of Georgia, U.S. He was devoted to the cause of the blacks, and lately visited Liberia, where he contracted the malarial fever which caused his death. Bishop Haven was a constant writer for the press. In 1864 he published 'The Pilgrim's Wallet,' a book of European travel; in 1869, 'National Sermons'; in 1875, 'Our Nearest Neighbour,' a volume descriptive of Mexico. He was also author of a 'Life of Father Taylor,' the seamen's preacher, of Boston, and of numerous articles in the Methodist and other reviews.

Frank Leslie, the famous publisher, of New York City, died there January 10th, aged 59, of cancer. Leslie was an assumed name, his real name being Henry Carter. He was born in England, and his departure for America, and change of name, were due to disagreements in the family of his father. He learned the art of engraving, and by this means became connected with illustrated journalism. He founded his Illustrated Newspaper in 1855, which proved a great success, and is now one of the leading illustrated weeklies in America. In this journal Mr. Leslie produced illustrations of current history, together with pictures copied from European journals, which is a prominent feature of the publication even at the present time. In 1865 the Chimney Corner was started, and the management of this was intrusted to Mrs. Leslie, as was also that of the Lady's Magazine. The success which attended all his ventures led Mr. Leslie on to further publications. In rapid succession he issued the Boys' and Girls' Weekly, Pleasant Hours, the Lady's Journal, edited by Mrs. Leslie; the Popular Monthly, the Sunday Magazine, the Budget of Wit, and Chatterbox. In addition to these he published the Illustrirte Zeitung, an illustrated paper in German, which at once became popular among the Germans of the United States. He also published reprints of the novels which appeared from time to time in his journals, books of travel, and other works. Mr. Leslie was a Commissioner from the United States to the Paris Exposition of 1867, and a Commissioner from the State of New York to the Philadelphia Exposition of 1876.

BOOKS RECEIVED:

From Mr. David Bogue.—'The Dramatic List,' by Charles E. Pascoe, second edition. This work is a 'Men of the Time' for the stage, and will doubtless be eagerly read not only by actors and actresses, but by the very numerous playgoing public. The biographies are obviously written from materials supplied by their subjects, and there is consequently a strange absence of proportion in the notices, well-known performers being sometimes dealt with in a summary fashion, while others have far more space than they deserve. This, however, is a defect which time and experience will correct, and Mr. Pascoe may be congratulated on having produced a useful and readable book.

From Messrs. William Collins, Sons & Co.—'History of Holland and Belgium,' by W. C. Pearce. The history of Europe is so imperfectly understood, even by persons who have in other respects received a liberal education, that such a work as Mr. Pearce has here supplied deserves a cordial welcome. The author points out in his preface the strong claim which the annals of the Netherlands have upon the attention of Englishmen; and his sketch of the country may be commended as presenting a faithful picture of international history.

From the 'Field' Office.—'The Rural Almanack and Sportsman's Illustrated Calendar for 1880.' In addition to a very useful compilation of ordinary almanack matter, and some capital illustrations, and a reprint of the Acts of last Session interesting to country gentlemen, there is a complete list of yacht clubs, and reviews of the past season in the cricket field, the hunting field, and other sports. Like all which comes from the Field office, the almanack is well printed and seems to have been very carefully edited.

From Messrs. Gall & Inglis.—'The Fifth Reader,' edited by Thomas Morrison, M.A. This is a new number of the 'British Readers,' provided to meet the requirements of the Education Code. The contents include selections from standard authors both in prose and verse, with diagrams and woodcuts wherever they are needed to illustrate the text. Each chapter has its spelling lesson on the principal words introduced in it, and at the close of the Reading, questions are furnished. The book is thus very complete, and the passages are well chosen.

From Messrs. Griffith & Farran.—'Eight Months in an Ox Waggon: Reminiscences of Boer Life,' by E. F. Sandeman. The work which Sir Garnet Wolseley has been trying to accomplish—apparently without any very satisfactory results—among the Boers in the Transvaal will give an immediate interest to this lively book of travel, in which the author tells his story of Boer life, its scenes and incidents. The adventures of Mr. Sandeman were so realistic that he was reported as killed, and when at last he arrived in London the hall porter at his club almost jumped out of his box, and was unable to speak to him for astonishment: a member of the club having been kind enough to tell the worthy janitor that he had himself seen Mr. Sandeman lying dead in the Transvaal. This fact will in itself be enough to show that the author's adventures were far removed from the commonplace, and those who desire to have some exciting reading in combination with a vast amount of information as to the manners and customs of these strange colonists will find it in the volume before us. As to the impossibility of meeting the wishes of the Boers by allowing them to resume their independent position, Mr. Sandeman is entirely at one with Sir Garnet Wolseley, and he says, 'Now that the Transvaal has been annexed by the British, the question of whether the act itself was justifiable or not has no further importance, for what has been done cannot be undone without loss of prestige.' As to the responsibilities imposed on the Imperial Government by the transaction, his remarks are the reverse of pleasant for the British ratepayer, as he prophesies that 'the expenditure will be enormous, and will have to be borne by the Imperial Government almost entirely.' Of the ultimate benefit of the arrangement to the Boers our author seems to have little doubt, but he candidly admits that at present they have no absolute quid pro quo for the loss of the independence which they so highly valued.

From 'Hand and Heart' Publishing Office.—'The Royal Law; or, the Words of the King,' with other Sunday Tales illustrating Bible Truths, by Emma Marshall. A volume of taking tales, each illustrating some lesson from the Bible, and well fitted for reading to children, or as 'a Sunday book' for those who are old enough to read for themselves.

From Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton.—'Africa: Past and Present,' by an Old Resident. The author undertakes to give a concise account of the country, its history, geography, explorations, climates, productions, resources, population, tribes, manners, customs, languages, colonisation, and Christian missions. This, remembering the size of the 'dark continent,' is, it must be admitted, a somewhat heavy task to undertake in one volume; but the author, Mr. W. Moister, has, by dint of compression, contrived to store his book with a vast mass of facts, and it will doubtless prove of much practical use to emigrants, while it will interest 'the gentlemen who sit at home at ease,' and prefer to have all their travelling in dangerous regions done for them. The information is admirably classified, and a well-compiled index adds materially to the usefulness of the book. There is a good map, engraved by Messrs. W. and A. K. Johnston, and there are numerous illustrations.

From the same.—'Cousin Emily's Pictures and Stories.' One of the cheapest and most attractive children's books we have seen latterly. It consists of 64 pages, measuring 12 by 8½ inches, printed in large type, of reading in prose and verse, commencing with 'A for apple'; ushered in by a Christmas caroller barefoot in the snow, little dog, and a baby face enframed in the title-page. The binding is a handsome gilt cloth.

From Messrs. Houlston & Sons.—'A Short and Simple Catechism of Old Testament History,' by the Rev. Edward Greenhow, M.A. The author of this capital little manual is the inspector of schools in religious knowledge in the diocese of Llandaff, and he has therefore had ample means of forming an opinion as to the best mode of imparting the knowledge which he here undertakes to supply. The plan he adopts is to give the class or child a reading lesson from the Bible, and then to supply the teacher with a series of questions based on the lesson. The work is arranged in three parts: I. The History of the Patriarchs; II. From the Bondage in Egypt to the Death of Samson; III. From the Birth of Samuel to the Return of the Jews from the Babylonian Captivity. It is admirably arranged and very clearly printed.

From the same.—'Leaves of Healing for the Bereaved,' edited by Arthur Guthrie. A beautifully-printed little volume of poems, hymns, and prose passages, drawn from a variety of sources, and all calculated to give consolation to the mourner. The editor has been eminently catholic in his selections in the best sense of the words, and in every case he acknowledges the author whom he lays under contribution.

From Messrs. Kerby & Endean.—'The Marvelous Little Housekeepers: What they did and How they did it,' by Ida Joscelyne. Second Edition. The authoress of this attractive little work is evidently of opinion that 'it's never too early to learn,' and she here chronicles the various stages of progress through which some children passed in learning to cook and to perform other domestic duties. Apart from the interest which the narrative will excite, it will doubtless serve to stimulate little people to become 'gude housewives,' and to remember that education is to be carried forward in the kitchen as well as in the school-room.

From Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston, & Co.—'Songs and Etchings in Shade and Sunshine.' If ever there was a dainty book, this is one.

From Messrs. Macmillan & Co.—'A Handbook to Modern Greek,' by Edgar Vincent and T. G. Dickson. Professor Blackie appears as the godfather of this little volume, which claims to be a practical effort to demonstrate the importance of modern Greek, and to show—to quote Professor Blackie's preface—that it is 'not a patois, a mongrel hybrid, or degraded dialect in any legitimate sense of the word, but the same language in which St. Paul delivered his discourse to the Athenians from the Hill of Mars in the first century, with only such slight variations as the course of time naturally brings with it in the case of all spoken languages which have enjoyed an unbroken continuity of usage.' The plan of the volume is first to train the ear and tongue in the language, and not merely to appeal to the memory, the rules being deduced from the materials provided for the student.

From Messrs. Macniven & Wallace.—'Gathered Clusters from Scripture Pages,' by Lady Hope of Carriden. The philanthropic lady who has penned this attractive volume describes it on the title-page as 'a book for parents, teachers, and children,' and it is the result of an effort which she made at a country house to relieve Sunday of some of the dulness which had been associated with it in the minds of the young folks in the school-room and the nursery. It is in effect an interesting record of a domestic Bible class conducted by one who is evidently thoroughly acquainted with the sacred volume, and who succeeds in making it eminently attractive to little people. All who have to do with the religious instruction of children will find this book of immense service.

From the Office of 'Hand and Heart.'—'Puzzledom for Fireside Amusement,' by One of the Old Boys, with a preface by the Rev. Charles Bullock, B.D. A collection of charades, conundrums, acrostics, enigmas, anagrams, rebuses, &c., for home amusement. Mr. Bullock writes a preface in favour of popular recreation conducted on Christian principles, towards which this volume, handsomely printed and bound, will form no unimportant contribution.

From Messrs. C. Kegan Paul & Co.—'The Crayfish; an Introduction to the Study of Zoology,' by T. H. Huxley, F.R.S. Whatever Professor Huxley writes is not only secure of an audience, but is sure to be worth reading, and this popular manual of zoology forms no exception to the rule. It is not, he assures us in the preface, intended as a zoological monograph on crayfishes, but rather his desire was 'to show how the careful study of one of the commonest and most significant of animals leads us, step by step, from everyday knowledge to the widest generalisations and the most difficult problems of zoology, and indeed of biological science in general.' The work is admirably complete, and the illustrations which abound in its pages serve to make it as attractive as it is full of interest.

From the Religious Tract Society.—'A Yacht Voyage round England,' by William H. G. Kingston. The tendency to indulge in foreign travel and to ignore the beauties of our own island has been frequently condemned, but is still unpleasantly noticeable, and Mr. Kingston has therefore performed a very useful task in describing what may be seen by coasting England from one end to the other. The book, like all Mr. Kingston writes, is cast in an entertaining form and is full of gossip and incident, but at the same time he has contrived to include a vast amount of information about the places at which his yachtsmen drop their anchor. The book is, moreover, prettily got up and freely illustrated, and it is worthy of the attention of a larger circle of readers than the boys for whom apparently it was primarily written. The description of the Welsh and Scottish coasts are specially worthy of notice, as they introduce us to spots which lie somewhat off the beaten track of the tourist.

From Mr. Walter Smith (late Mozley & Smith).—'Catechism for Church Schools,' compiled with permission from the 'Theophilus Anglicanus' of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Lincoln, by the Rev. Frederick Burn Harvey, M.A. Those who are engaged in the instruction of the young on Church of England principles will welcome this popular adaptation from Bishop Wordsworth's well-known work, as affording a supplement to Church Catechism. It gives, in catechetical form, full information on all points connected with the Church, her authority, and ministry, and adds some definitions of tenets of the chief nonconforming bodies. The manual is intended not only for the use of senior scholars in Sunday schools, but for pupil teachers and for adult classes. A somewhat similar work, but in a smaller compass, is published in the Scottish Episcopal Church with the sanction of the Bishops, but this is the first work of the kind for the Established Church of England, which has come before us.

From Messrs. W. Swan, Sonnenschein, & Allen. 'Primer of the Industrial Geography of Great Britain and Ireland,' by G. Phillips Bevan, F.G.S., F.S.S. The importance of 'Embodying into our educational system some acquaintance with the industrial condition of the countries of the world in these days of technical activity,' is assigned in the preface as the raison d'être of this new series of primers. The work before us is admirably compact and handy, and appended to the chapters on the various industries and their homes is a 'Lesson Table of Industries' arranged under the various counties, showing the special industries of all the chief towns.

From Mr. James Thornton (of Oxford).—'Questions and Exercises in Political Economy,' arranged and edited by Wolseley P. Emerton, M.A., B.C.L., Christ Church, Oxford. The growing importance assigned to political economy in the universities, and the popular interest excited in the subject by the lectures delivered under the auspices of the University Education Extension Scheme, have made an opening for manuals of the science to which this volume will form a useful complement. The questions given in its pages have for the most part been actually set in University examinations, and thus the book has a practical value for undergraduates as well as for students generally. Each question is followed either by a direct answer, with the name of the author from whose work it is taken, or by a reference to one of the text-books named in the opening pages, in which a reply can be found. The manual is thus in effect an exhaustive catechism, with the additional advantage that as it does not tell the student everything, it must stimulate research. The chief authors referred to and quoted are Adam Smith, Ricardo, J. S. Mill, Fawcett, Thorold Rogers, Bonamy Price, Travers Twiss, and Macleod.

From Messrs. Ward, Lock, & Co.—'Intoxicating Drinks: their History and Mystery,' by J. W. Kirton, LL.D. Although this work is not necessarily to be considered as a contribution to the literature of teetotalism, its author makes no secret of his conviction that temperance is the great need of the English nation, and especially of the working classes. He shows in a series of interesting chapters, what are the constituents of the chief intoxicants and their influence upon those who drink them; and the moral of his work is, that the Government and the nation ought to combine to put an end to the present unrestricted liquor traffic.

From Messrs. Ward, Lock, & Co.—'The Year Book of Facts in Science and the Arts,' edited by James Mason. The year covered in the present volume is from the 15th of October 1878 to the 15th of October 1879, and the work, printed in double column, seems to have been very carefully compiled. It is classified under a variety of heads, and there is an index to the subjects treated, which embrace all forms of natural science and recent inventions and improvements in industrial occupations.

From Mr. Effingham Wilson.—'A Treatise on the Coins of the Realm, in a Letter to the King by Charles, First Earl of Liverpool.' This reprint was, we learn from a prefatory letter to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, from Messrs. Birch & Grenfell, Governors of the Bank of England, published in order to supply information, not only in reference to metallic circulation, but also as to the abuses of which the issue of paper money is susceptible. In an introduction to the volume from the pens of the same gentlemen we have a brief biographical sketch of the author, by Lord Liverpool, and it appears that in this work we have the results of his investigations into the subject of coinage and currency made while member of the Committee of Council on Coins appointed in 1798, and of the Select Committee which took up its work. Owing to 'obstructions,' the reports of these committees were never printed, and Lord Liverpool, during an illness of four years, occupied his time in writing the present work. The book is thorough and exhaustive, and as a proof of the soundness of Lord Liverpool's views on the subject, we find that the present Mint regulations are in exact conformity with his suggestions, and that the existing laws limiting the issue of bank notes were devised to remedy the evils to which he called public attention in his remarks on paper currency. Historically the book is of value, as presenting a complete record of the changes in our coins since 1760, and also as offering a trustworthy and compendious summary of the views of the chief authorities on coinage and currency, among whom the author eminently deserved to be reckoned.

'Professor Marshall's long experience as a teacher of artists has given him exceptional opportunities of studying one of the old physiological problems.....To attain the knowledge of anatomy which is requisite to the painter or the sculptor, Professor Marshall's book on the subject is indispensable. As an embodiment of proportions which are true to nature, the "Rule" is invaluable, and should be possessed by every art student. No book has been published of late years in art literature which promises to be more fruitful in beneficial results.....Professor Marshall has given the results of his wide experience in such a form as to be within the reach of all classes. His book is precisely what was needed; and it has been produced in a way which leaves nothing to be desired.'—ARCHITECT.

'Ars longa, vita brevis.'

BIOGRAPHIES OF THE GREAT ARTISTS.

From the TIMES, Jan. 22, 1880.

'Few things in the way of small books upon great subjects, avowedly cheap and necessarily brief, have been hitherto so well done as these biographies of the Great Masters in painting. They afford just what a very large proportion of readers in these hurrying times wish to be provided with—a sort of concentrated food for the mind. The Liebig's of literature, however, especially in that of the fine arts, need no small amount of critical acumen, much experience in the art of system, and something of the bee-like instinct that guesses rightly where the honey lies.....The life of Holbein is by Mr. Cundall, the editor, with whom the idea of such a series originated, and to whose great experience in illustrated books is to be attributed the very valuable copies of all the important pictures contained in the different biographies. These have been selected with great taste and judgment, and being taken generally from less well-known works by the masters, they enhance the interest and add much to the practical utility of the books. The chronological lists of the works of the masters are also very useful additions.'

'A deserving series.'—EDINBURGH REVIEW.

'Most thoroughly and tastefully edited.'—SPECTATOR.

ILLUSTRATED BIOGRAPHIES of the GREAT ARTISTS

Each Volume is Illustrated with from 12 to 20 full-page Engravings, printed in the best manner, and bound in ornamental cloth cover, 3s. 6d.

From a Review in the SPECTATOR.

'It is high time that some thorough and general acquaintance with the works of these mighty painters should be spread abroad, and it is also curious to think how long their names have occupied sacred niches in the world's heart, without the presence of much popular knowledge about the collective work of their lives. The really thorough knowledge that those have acquired who have been fond of art throughout the past, is the thing to strive at as much as possible; and if the present series of biographies, which seems to be most thoroughly and tastefully edited, succeeds in responding to the wants of modest, if ardent, art-knowledge, its aim will be accomplished.'

ILLUSTRATED TEXT-BOOKS of ART-EDUCATION.

Edited by EDWARD J. POYNTER, R.A.

Director for Art, Science and Art Department.

There is no branch of popular education that has hitherto received less attention of this country than the History of Art. Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting have seldom been included in the curriculum of any public school, and are known rather as subjects of study for special purposes than as a part of general education. The history of their origin and progress is to be found only in expensive books, and has seldom been treated of in any popular form. . . .

The First Series of ILLUSTRATED TEXT-BOOKS OF ART EDUCATION will be issued in the following Divisions:—

PAINTING.

CLASSIC AND ITALIAN.	FRENCH AND SPANISH.
GERMAN, FLEMISH, AND DUTCH.	ENGLISH AND AMERICAN.

ARCHITECTURE.

CLASSIC AND EARLY CHRISTIAN.	GOthic AND RENAISSANCE.

FRANK BLAKE the TRAP-

PER. By Mrs. HARDY, Author of 'The Castaway's Home,' 'Up North,' &c. Handsomely bound and illustrated, 5s.

The TIMES says:—"Frank Blake" is a story in which bears, Indians, comical negroes, and the various other dramatis personæ of such works play their parts with capital effect. This is a tale of the good old-fashioned sort. The PALL MALL GAZETTE says:—"Frank Blake" abounds in adventures of a familiar and popular kind."

The SATURDAY REVIEW says:—"Frank Blake" is the book wherewith to spend a happy day at the romantic and tender age of thirteen. It scarcely yields in interest to the "Rifle Rangers" or "The White Chief."

The GUARDIAN says:—"It is a book of unusual power of its kind."

THE AMERICAN ART REVIEW,

A JOURNAL DEVOTED TO THE PRACTICE, THEORY, HISTORY, AND ARCHÆOLOGY OF ART.

MANAGING EDITOR: S. R. KOEHLER.

ASSOCIATE EDITORS:

WILLIAM C. PRIME, LL.D., NEW YORK; CHARLES C. PERKINS, A.M., BOSTON.

HIS new monthly magazine, Part I. of which is now ready, will embrace the art of our own time as well as of the past, in all its branches and in all countries, and will give special attention to the history and archæology of art in America—a subject which has thus far been almost entirely neglected in similar publications. In its treatment of contemporaneous art the REVIEW will not be the organ of any one School, but will strive fairly to present the claims of all schools, leaving its readers to judge for themselves of the merits of each. Its leading articles will be original contributions by well-known American and foreign art writers. All original articles will be signed; all selections will be properly credited to the periodicals from which they were taken. The REVIEW will endeavour to keep its readers thoroughly informed of the discoveries in the history and archæology of art in all parts of the world, and a special department will be devoted to the announcement and careful criticism of new books on artistic subjects. The names of the editors and contributors are a sufficient guaranty that the literary part of the magazine will be of a high order of excellence.

The illustrations of THE AMERICAN ART REVIEW will consist of first-class etchings, engravings, heliogravures, woodcuts, photo-engravings, &c., but its especial feature will be a series of Original Painter-Etchings by American Artists. Original etchings being the direct production of the artist himself, without the intervention of the engraver, it will be seen at once that such plates offer a much greater interest than even the most skilful reproductions. The revival of etching in Europe is largely due to the efforts of the well-known art journals, and it is hoped that the REVIEW will render a similar service to etching in America.

Several series of articles are now in preparation, which will be specially appropriate to an American art journal. Of these may be mentioned The Works of the Early American Artists (including the paintings of Copley, Stuart, Malbone, Trumbull, Allston, Cole, R. Caton Woodville, &c.), The Works of Contemporaneous American Artists, and The Public and Private Collections of the United States. All these articles will be illustrated by reproductive etchings, executed by Messrs. S. J. FERRIS, PETER MORAN, S. A. SCHOFF, JAMES D. SMILLIE, WILLIAM WELLSTOOD, and others.

Besides these American etchings, the REVIEW will also contain etchings by celebrated European artists, such as WILLIAM UNGER, LEOPOLD FLAMENG, P. RAJON, GUSTAVE GREUX, W. LEIBL, F. L. MEYER, E. FORBERG, and others.

From the foregoing statements it will be seen that THE AMERICAN ART REVIEW is intended to be thoroughly cosmopolitan in character, and equal in quality to the best European publications of a similar nature. At the same time it will be the only truly representative American Art Magazine.

Of Zaccheus the publican.	LUKE, XIX.	The ten pieces of money.
42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee.		kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him, to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.
43 And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God.		16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.
CHAPTER XIX.		17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.
1 Of Zaccheus the publican. 11 The ten pieces of money. 28 Christ rideth into Jerusalem: 41 weepeth over it: 45 driveth the buyers and sellers out of the temple, etc.		18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.
AND Jesus entered and passed through Jericho.		19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.
2 And, behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the chief among the publicans, and he was rich.		20 And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:
3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was; and could not for the press, because he was little of stature.		21 For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou layedst not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.
4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycamore tree to see him: for he was to pass that way.		22 And he saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:
5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, make haste, and come down; for to-day I must abide at thy house.		23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?
6 And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully.		24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.
7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.		25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)
8 And Zaccheus stood, and said unto the Lord: Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him four-fold.		26 For I say unto you, That unto every one which hath shall be given; and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.
9 And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forasmuch as he also is a son of Abraham.		27 But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.
10 For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.		28 And when he had thus spoken, he went before, ascending up to Jerusalem.
11 ¶ And as they heard these things, he added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.		29 ¶ And it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,
12 He said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.		30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.
13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.		31 And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.
14 But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.		32 And they that were sent went
15 And it came to pass, that, when he was returned, having received the

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.		23 Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father: (but) he that acknowledgeth the Son hath the Father also.
4 He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.		24 Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

The Rudiments of Logic, with Tables and Examples. By F. E. WEATHERLY, M.A. Fcp. 8vo. cloth limp. 2s. 6d. [Just published.]

Brevity and clearness of arrangement have chiefly been kept in view. The popular explanations of disputed points have been adopted; and examples have been chosen for the sake of their simplicity. The tables at the end of each chapter will, it is hoped, furnish a practical proof of the usefulness of Division, as well as an illustration of its method; and the Violations which accompany every rule will, it is believed, show more forcibly than any positive explanations, the necessity and application of those rules. So far as the writer is aware, this plan has not been adopted and consistently carried out in any text-book. And it is this that he especially offers as the raison d'être of his manual.

THE MAIL BUDGET :

A WEEKLY EPITOME OF

SOCIAL and POLITICAL NEWS, LITERATURE, MUSIC, and the DRAMA.

FOR THE FAMILY CIRCLE AT HOME AND ABROAD.

This Paper is admirably adapted as an Advertising medium for those Firms desiring to bring their specialities directly before the notice of consumers throughout the world, especially in India and the Colonies.

It is, as its name denotes, veritably a 'Budget for the Mail'—a compendium of news and information upon all topics interesting to foreign residents—forming an excellent and unequalled Family Paper.

Its circulation is already very extensive, and is rapidly increasing, a reliable proof that it meets the wants of distant readers for a succinct and concise, yet comprehensive, epitome of all subjects with which families abroad, equally with their friends in the mother country, are concerned.

'THE MAIL BUDGET' is published every Thursday for Friday. The price is 1d. per copy, and may be procured through any Newsagent and at the Railway Bookstalls. The Annual Subscription, including inland postage, is 6s.

'No one will take it up without reading greedily to the end.'—ATHENÆUM.

MEMOIRS of MADAME DE REMUSAT, 1802-1808. By her Grandson, M. PAUL DE REMUSAT, Senator. Translated by Mrs. CASHEL HOEY and Mr. JOHN LILLIE. 2 vols. demy 8vo. cloth extra, price 32s. [Vol. I. now ready.]

The work was written by Madame de Rémusat during the time she was living on the most intimate terms with the Empress Josephine, and is full of revelations respecting the private life of Bonaparte, and of men and politics of the first years of the century—revelations which have already created great sensation in Paris.

N.B.—This English Translation is in Two Volumes (the French original is in Three), and Vol. I., now ready, is equal to Vol. I. and half Vol. II. of the French Edition.

Vol. II. of the English Edition, completing the work, will be issued simultaneously with Vol. III. of the French.

NEW BOOK OF ASIAN TRAVEL.

The FORBIDDEN LAND: Voyages to the Corea. By G. OPPERT. With Illustrations and Maps.

'Here, then, is the phenomenon of a population of 16,000,000, without a history, and inhabiting a land which has been for centuries a sealed book to European research. It will be easily guessed, therefore, that Mr. Oppert's book has an interest distinctly unique among later books of travel. . . . It is offered as a picture of an unknown country, and very admirably and faithfully fulfils its end.'

MAYFAIR.

The AUSTRALIAN ABROAD. Branches from the Main Routes Round the World. Comprising the Author's Route through Japan, China, Cochin-China, Malasia, Sunda, Java, Torres Straits, Northern Australia, New South Wales, South Australia, and New Zealand. By JAMES HINGSTON, ('J. H.' of the Melbourne Argus). With Maps and numerous Illustrations from Photographs, including a Frontispiece, representing the famous Boer-Buddha Temple, Java. 1 vol. demy 8vo. 14s.

'Since the days of Captain Cook several men have managed to get round the world; few, however, have given so interesting an account of their tours as that which Mr. Hingston presents. That gentleman has fairly earned his right to publish a book of travel; he is a clever writer, his subject is good, and his knowledge of it thorough.'—MORNING POST.

'Lieut.-General Sir Henry F. Ponsonby presents his compliments to Mr. Barry; he has received the Queen's commands to thank Mr. Barry for the volume which he has forwarded for Her Majesty's acceptance.'

From the TIMES Review, December 22.

EXTRACT.—'It is a true record of a life spent in 'roughing it' among many men in many lands... Very varied and interesting... His blunt, homely style, extenuating nothing and setting down naught that he cannot vouch for, lends an additional charm to a narrative from every page of which the truth speaks out. The book is thoroughly worth reading, and worth thinking over as well.'

From the ATHENÆUM, Jan. 31.

'It can be safely said that this autobiography is one of the most remarkable and extraordinary which it has ever been our lot to read.'

THE

(FOR THE YOUNGSTERS.)

Its Special Features are, the Great Variety and Interest of its Literary Contents, and the Beauty and Profuseness of its Illustrations.

IT IS AN IMMENSE SUCCESS IN AMERICA, AND IS EQUALLY APPRECIATED IN THIS COUNTRY WHEREVER INTRODUCED.

The Illustrations surpass anything yet attempted in any publication for Young People, and the Stories are by the best living Authors of Juvenile Literature.

EACH PART CONTAINS, ON AN AVERAGE, FIFTY ILLUSTRATIONS.

SOME OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.

JOHN BULL says:—'With each month it establishes more and more firmly its place as the Magazine for Girls and Boys.'

The SCOTSMAN, Dec. 29, 1879, says:—'Thoroughly amusing as well as instructive.'

The EXAMINER says:—'Both the engravings and text are of such excellent quality that, if the generality of juvenile books in this country could be supplanted by it, the next generation would do much towards removing the charge of bad taste in matters of art which is so justly brought against the masses of the English people. We find in St. Nicholas contributions from the most renowned pens—from Longfellow, Bryant, Carroll, Alcott, and Winthrop, illustrated with a delicacy and richness of colour rarely to be met with in any children's books here, and never in any of the children's magazines.'

The INQUIRER says:—'Do any of our readers want to know a good magazine for their young folk?—one that they can put unhesitatingly into the hands of children able to read to themselves? If so, we recommend them to try St. Nicholas. We know of no magazine of the kind in this country equal to it.'
