The Publishers' Circular for August 16 will be devoted to

EDUCATIONAL LITERATURE,

and will contain Lists, from all the principal Publishers, of Books and Articles for School and College use.

As a large number of extra copies will be printed for gratuitous circulation among the principal Schools in the kingdom, this number offers a peculiarly valuable medium for Advertisements addressed to persons engaged in tuition.

Advertisers of a page and upwards may be supplied with a few extra copies gratuitously; and any Booksellers wishing a number for distribution can be supplied with them, in Wrappers, containing their Names and Addresses, at a greatly reduced rate.

188 FLEET STREET: August 2, 1880.

THE burning of Professor Mommsen's library has created no slight anxiety among bibliophiles as to the possible destruction of manuscripts and other works which can never be replaced, and it seems to be more than probable that, in some instances, this will prove to have been the case. Whether the Professor had induced the authorities at the Vatican to depart from a rule which would, if they had acceded to his applications, have been broken for the first time in the history of the famous collection, is not at present known; but even if the famous Papal shelves have not suffered, some of our own libraries will find themselves losers by the fire, and several famous Continental collections will also be deprived of valuable works. The sympathy which has naturally been evoked for the Professor, whose personal losses include not merely his books but manuscripts representing long years of toil, will, it is expected, lead to efforts to replace some of his treasures, which were very inadequately insured; but the moral of the misfortune concerns others in addition to the principal sufferer. The readiness with which some of our English libraries—and the Bodleian's mistaken liberality in this particular has been specially called in question-entrust their choicest possessions to distinguished authors cannot be too strongly condemned, for even where a literary worker has the most urgent need of some rare tome for purposes of comparison or collation he may fairly be expected to come to its proper home to do his work, or to pay an expert to do it for him. This ought to be a rule absolutely without an exception in regard to all public libraries, and, indeed, the owners of private collections would do well to come to the same unalterable determination. Another point which has been suggested by the disaster is the possibility of securing, by the aid of photography, replicas of some of the unique works possessed by the chief libraries of Europe. To give effect to any such scheme there must be a willing co-operation on the part of the Governments of the respective countries, which it would, we believe, be far from difficult to secure, if the heads of the libraries took the matter in hand and prepared some satisfactory and workable plan of operation. To meet the inevitably heavy expenses, many private persons would doubtless willingly consent to subscribe for copies, and thus reduce the outlay from the national exchequers.

The accounts of the actual losses incurred by Professor Mommsen in the destruction of his library differ materially, but it is agreed on all hands that they have been very severe, and not a single book in his own collection escaped the flames. A correspondent of the Times, who professes to speak with authority, says: 'Of the unedited inscriptions of the "Corpus Inscriptionum Latinarum," the addenda to Vol. X. (containing Lower Italy, West) are to be considered as destroyed. Greatly damaged are the "Instrumentum Domesticum" of Vol. IX. (Lower Italy, East), the "Columnæ Militariæ" (Sicily and Sardinia) of Vol. X., the "Index Auctorum "of Vols. IX. and X., and the "Inscriptions of Helvetia" of Vol. XIII. On the other hand, I am glad to be able to say that Vol. VIII., containing Africa (begun by Wilmanns and finished by Mommsen) remains intact. The four Jordanes MSS. of the libraries of Heidelberg (Palatinus 921, of which, however, collations fortunately exist), Berlin, Vienna, and Breslau are destroyed. The critical text of Jordanes which Mommsen had prepared for publication in the Auctorés Antiquissimi of the Monumenta Germaniæ is saved, as also the preface and account of the MSS. used by the editor. This standard edition of Jordanes will be some consolation for the destruction of the MSS.' The same writer adds: 'More lamentable than all those losses of books and MSS. is the destruction of Mommsen's own Collectanea and works still in MS.; among those, so far as my information goes, was Mommsen's MS. of the History of the Empire, of which nearly three volumes were ready. I may mention, also, as a curious circumstance that Mommsen on the very morning of the fatal day (the 12th of July) was on the point of sending back all the MSS. which he had no longer occasion to use.' Some MSS. belonging to Trinity College, Cambridge, are said to have been destroyed, but the report that manuscripts from Corpus Christi, Cambridge, perished in the fire has been authoritatively contradicted by Dr. Perowne.

The question of International Copyright has been once more mentioned in Parliament, and in the House of Commons on the 22nd ult., in reply to a question from Mr. Baxter, Mr. Chamberlain said: A suggestion was made to Mr. Evarts, in February last, by Messrs. Jay, Wilson, and Appleton, as the American members of the International Copyright Committee of the Association for the Reform of International Law, to the effect that an international copyright is desirable in America. What the details of that proposal are I am unable to say, nor how far it is supported by public opinion in America. In November, 1878, a suggestion was made by Messrs. Harper and Brothers to Mr. Evarts that there should be a joint commission, constituted as stated in the question, for the purpose of making and presenting such a report as might lead to international copyright between England and the United States. I am not aware what view the American Government has taken of that proposal. I need scarcely say that Her Majesty's Government would favourably regard any practical proposal for international copyright with America which would have the effect of securing the due rights of authors, publishers, and readers in the two countries.

At a meeting of the Court of Common Council on the 15th ult., at which the Lord Mayor presided, a letter addressed to his lordship was read from the President of the Municipal Council of Paris, stating that at their meeting on February 23, 1878, on the motion of M. Engelhard, they decided that the ancient plans of Paris should be reproduced in photographs and bound in an atlas. It was now complete and formed a valuable historical work. Very valuable and rare documents were thus collected, and their preservation for ever was ensured. In looking through the thirty-three plans and reading the explanatory notes, one was enabled to follow Paris through all ages and trace its successive developments. It was a chronological panorama, possessing the interest of historical exactness and at the same time comprehending local details. In the name of the municipal council he (the President) had the honour to ask the Lord Mayor's acceptance of a copy as a souvenir and in appreciation of the hospitable reception accorded to the representatives of the City of Paris on their visit to London in 1877. On the motion of Mr. Bedford this valuable gift was accepted with many thanks.

Messrs. Hurst & Blackett will publish in August the new novel, 'Lord Brackenbury,' by Miss Amelia B. Edwards, author of 'Barbara's History,' 'Debenham's Vow,' &c., in 3 vols.; and also, in a few days, 'A Very Opal,' a novel by Mrs. Pirkis, author of 'In a World of His Own,' &c., in 3 vols.

Mr. C. J. Stewart, of King William Street, Strand, sends us Part 1 of his General Catalogue of stock. The extent of the collection will be inferred when we say that 240 pages take us only as far as Calvin. The titles are enriched by much careful and valuable annotation, which, by the mere change of type, conciliates the eye. The tint of the paper, which is a warm grey, almost, will be found more pleasant than the ordinary black and white.

Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. have just issued an important work, in one volume, 8vo., entitled 'The Navies of the World, giving concise descriptions of the Plans, Armament, and Armour of the Naval Vessels of Twenty of the Principal Nations, together with the latest developments in Ordnance, Torpedoes, and Naval Architecture: with a concise summary of the principal Naval Battles of the last Twenty Years, 1860–1880, by Lieut. Edward W. Very, U.S. Navy.' The book has eighty pages of illustrations. The same firm have nearly ready a new work by Richard Grant White, entitled 'Every-Day English.' In this book Mr. White continues in various directions the studies begun in his former work, 'Words and their Uses.' It treats of Speech, Writing, Grammar, Words, and Phrases, pointing out the errors in the common use of English.

Mr. H. G. Reid, of Her Majesty's Stationery Office, has just completed a new edition of Mr. McCulloch's Dictionary of Commerce, to which he has added a chapter bringing the work up to date.

The Royal Archæological Institute is exceptionally fortunate this year in having for its president at the meetings now in progress at Lincoln a prelate who is not merely eminent as an ecclesiastic, but who has also a high reputation as an author.

The Literary Association will hold its annual meeting at Edinburgh on the 5th, 6th, and 7th of October. The Royal Society has placed its rooms at the disposal of the Association, and local colour will as far as possible be given to the proceedings.

Mr. M. Huish succeeds Mr. Hall and the late Mr. Dafforne as editor of the Art Journal.

Messrs. Williams and Norgate have published the lectures delivered on the Hibbert foundation in 1879 by M. Le Page Renouf on 'The Growth and Origin of Religion as Illustrated by the Religion of Ancient Egypt.'

A somewhat novel feature in magazine literature is announced by Mr. Mackeson, the editor of the Churchman's Shilling Magazine, for the twenty-eighth volume of Messrs. Houlston's serial, which commences with the September part. A series of papers on 'The Resurrection,' by an eminent theologian, will be published in the magazine, examining and refuting the arguments brought forward by recent writers against the cardinal doctrine of Christianity, and the writer invites his readers to forward, through the editor, a statement of any difficulties which may present themselves to their minds in connection with the subject. All such references the author will carefully consider and deal with in a supplementary paper. Another series of papers announced in the same magazine has for its subject 'The Characters of Milton,' by the Rev. G. S. Outram, M.A.

Messrs. F. Mordan & Co., of the City Road, appear to have had a very good show at the Printing and Stationery Exhibition. On a screen extending the whole length of their stand, at the back, were rows of their different sizes of inks. Gum, marking ink, no less than sixteen varieties of penny 'inks,' ticket-writing and endorsing inks, and other kinds, were on the counter for trial. The chemicals and raw materials used in the manufacture were also shown. Sealing-wax in large slabs, of the better kind; also bottling, pipe makers', and parcel sealing-wax occupied the other end of the counter, along with different kinds of fancy sealing-wax. Between the wax and the ink were seen cutlery, copying letter books, stationery cabinets, gold pencil cases, &c.

At the meeting of the Common Council of the City of London on the 15th ult. a letter was read from the Sacred Harmonic Society inquiring whether the Corporation would be willing to undertake the charge of the property belonging to the society, consisting of its library of music and other works, and the statue of Handel by Roubillac. This offer was also accepted.

The funeral of Mr. Tom Taylor took place at Brompton Centetery. Only the family started with the funeral from Lavender Sweep, Wandsworth, but at the entrance to the Cemetery the procession was met by a large and distinguished gathering of between 200 and 300 persons, representative of art, the drama, literature, and journatism, who had attended to mark their respect and affection for their lost friend and fellow-worker. Among them were not a few ladies. The coffin was covered with wreaths and flowers. The service was impressively read by the Rev. W. J. M. Ellison, vicar of St. John's, Wandsworth Common, the parish in which Mr. Tom Taylor lived.

A few days ago was celebrated at Jena the 50th anniversary of the call to that University of Professor Hase, the renowned Church historian. Goethe, who was then still the Minister of Fine Arts of the Grand Duke of Saxe-Weimar, signed Professor Hase's appointment.

It is announced that the 'Ordinal and Statutes' of Wells Cathedral, the only MS. copy of which is in the Hambeth Library, is shortly to be published, under the permission of the Archbishop of Canterbury and the Dean and Chapter of Wells, by the Rev. H. E. Reynolds, M.A., the librarian of Exeter Cathedral, who is also engaged on the 'Liber Niger' of Lincoln fame, and the 'Ordinal of Bishop Grandisson.'

The Rev. G. E. Jelf, vicar of Saffron Walden, who has been appointed by the Lord Chancellor to succeed Dr. Miller as Canon of Rochester, is author of several theological and devotional works; published by Mr. Walter Smith (late Mozley & Smith)—'Make Up for Lost Time,' third edition, 1877; 'Our Treasure of Light,' 1874; 'Necessary Things,' 1875; 'The Secret Trials of the Christian Life,' fifth edition, 1877; also two volumes published by the S.P.C.K., 'The House of God the Home of Man,' and 'The Rule of God's Commandments.'

We learn from the Citizen that during June, 1879, 26,022 persons visited the free library, reading-room, and museum of the Corporation, at the Guildhall; and that in June of this year the number increased to 26,140, notwithstanding that the library was closed from the 12th to the 18th of June, inclusive. Twenty years ago, when access to the library was alone obtained by introductions from members of the Corporation, the number who visited it in one year was only about 8,000.

The Globe's correspondent at Brussels informs us that the representatives of the Press in that city were invited to attend a meeting on the 23rd ult. for the purpose of considering a proposal relative to the establishment in Brussels of a central office of the Press of all nations. It was proposed to name a committee to issue a circular to the chief editors of the Press inviting them to attend a congress to be held in Brussels in September next, and to prepare a programme. The object of the congress, as stated, was not very clearly defined, and was generally found to be impracticable. After a long discussion—in the course of which the English correspondents present explained that they had no authority to take any action whatever in the name of the papers they represent—the matter was left to the Belgian Press Committee, who will probably issue invitations to a congress to be held here at some future time, without, as far as appeared, any definite objects beyond meeting to fraternise; and very probably the matter will be dropped.

Since our last publication the following Publishers have issued books, full titles of which will be found in the New Book List:—

messrs. Cassell Retter Galpin & Co.—Caird's Landed Interest and the Supply of Food, new edition. Fancier's Directory for 1880. Great Industries of Great Britain, Vol. 3. Hulme's Familiar Wild Flowers, second series.

Bowra, 3 vols. R. Brown's Notes on the Northern Atlantic, for Travellers. The West Indies, by C. H. Eden (Foreign Countries and British Colonies). Gustave Masson's Episodes of French History: I. Charlemagne and the Carlovingians. F. Overman, Moulder and Founder's Pocket Guide, new edition. Sir Joshua Reynolds, by F. S. Pulling (Great Artists). Lieut. Very's Navies of the World. Rygh's Norwegian Antiquities, Part 1. Greece, by L. Sergeant (Foreign Countries and British Colonies). Sir Edwin Landseer, by F. G. Stephens (Great Artists).

Messrs. Macmillan & Co.—Vaughan's Memorials of Harrow Sundays, new edition.

Mr. John Murray.—Old French Plate, by W. J. Cripps.

Oxford Warehouse.—Freeman's Short History of the Norman Conquest (Clarendon Press).

Douglas Galton's Construction of Healthy Dwellings (Clarendon Press). W. E. Hall's International Law (Clarendon Press).

Mr. E. Stanford.—Bevan's Handbook to the County of Kent, new edition. Bevan's Guide to the West Riding of Yorkshire, new edition. McCalmont's Parliamentary Poll-book, new edition. Worth's Tourist's Guide to South Devon, new edition.

AMERICAN NEWS AND NOTES

Mr. Leypoldt's 'Publishers' Trade List Annual' for 1880 will make its appearance this month, an evidence of the general co-operation of the American trade. To it will be affixed a fourth provisional supplement to the American Catalogue (being a reference list of books recorded in the Publishers' Weekly from July 1, 1879, to June 30, 1880, with additional titles, corrections, changes of price, and publishers, etc.), also the American Educational Catalogue for 1880, and a directory of publishers; and special lists on current topics. Copies of this work can be had from Sampson Low & Co.

Messrs. Appleton & Co., New York, have just published the second issue of their Dictionary of New York and Vicinity' for 1880. This work is an alphabetically arranged Index and Guide to Places, Institutions, Societies, Amusements, Resorts, and all other things in and about the City of New York, in regard to which the stranger or resident may need or desire information. Mr. Joel Chandler Harris has collected his Uncle Remus' stories, printed in the Atlanta Constitution, and they will be published in book form by the same firm, under the title, 'Uncle Remus; His Songs and Sayings—the Folk Lore of the Old Plantation.' The volume will be illustrated.

An Alphabetical Record of New Books, issued from October 1879 to June 1880, inclusive, with a complete Directory of Publishers, their specialty and address, will soon be issued by Mr. Howard Challen, of Philadelphia. It is designed to enable booksellers and book buyers to ascertain new books by a favourite author, or advise them of any new book on any topic in which they may be interested.

Mr. S. E. Cassino, Boston, has just completed the publication of Professor Eaton's 'Ferns of North America.' The work is in two quarto volumes, containing upwards of seventy plates. A conspectus of all the ferns of America, with diagnostic characters, is appended to the second volume.

Messrs. Robert Clarke & Co., Cincinnati, will shortly publish a prose volume by John

James Piatt, entitled, 'Pencilled Fly-Leaves.'

Lieutenant F. V. Greene, of the United States Engineers, who was the American military attaché with the Grand Duke Nicholas during the Russo-Turkish War, and author of 'The Russian' Army and its Campaigns in Turkey in 1877-78,' has been decorated with the Star of Roumania.

Messrs. Ginn & Heath, Boston, will publish this month the first two volumes of their new Harvard edition of Shakespeare's Works, edited by Professor H. N. Hudson (mentioned in our issue of July 1), and in which he has put the results of a life-long devotion to the study of the great poet.

Mr. Delano A. Goddard, editor of the Boston Advertiser, recently furnished to the New England Historic Genealogical Society a paper, which has just been published in pamphlet form by A. Williams & Co., Boston, on 'Newspapers and Newspaper Writers in New England, 1787-1815.'

It is now positively announced that the 'Annual Record of Science and Discovery,' which the Messrs. Harper Bros., of New York, have been publishing for eight years, under the editorship of Professor Spencer F. Baird, is to be discontinued for lack of sufficient support. The publication of the Library Journal (New York) has likewise been suspended, and its practical features merged in the Publishers' Weekly.

Messrs. Hubbard Bros., of Philadelphia, have just published 'Heroes of Three Wars,' a collection of thirty-nine brief biographical sketches of 'the most distinguished soldiers' of the War of the Revolution, the Mexican War, and the Civil War.

The Rev. Edward Everett Hale will publish at once, through Roberts Brothers, Boston, uniform with his 'Man Without a Country,' a new volume of fiction, entitled, 'Crusoe in

New York, and other Stories.'

The New York Times, in a recent issue, says: 'Professor Asa Gray, whose name has lately been brought prominently before the public by the publication of his lectures at Yale College on 'Science and Religion,' will soon reach his seventieth birthday, having been born in Paris, Oneida County, New York, November 18, 1810. At the age of twenty-one he took a degree in a medical college, but he preferred botany to physic, and abandoned the latter for the former. He has been a Professor in Harvard College since 1842, when he was appointed to the Chair of Natural History. But he gave up active teaching a few years ago, to take charge of the Herbarium of that institution, and to devote his time to scientific work. Among his more elaborate works on botany are 'Genera of the Plants of the United States,' 'Manual of the Botany of the Northern United States,' and 'Botany of the United States Pacific Exploring Expedition under Captain Wilkes, all of which appeared years ago. In connection with Dr. John Torrey, he began in 1838 the publication of a 'Flora of North America,' which was continued for a time, and then suspended. While Dr. Gray's larger works have put him in the front rank of living botanists, his school-books on botany have made his name familiar throughout the United States and Europe. No writer has presented this subject in a more simple, clear, and attractive form than has Dr. Gray in his Elements of Botany,' 'How Plants Grow,' 'How Plants Behave,' 'Lessons in Botany,' 'Structural and Systematic Botany,' &c. In 1861 appeared his 'Free Examination of Darwin's Treatise on the Origin of Species, and of its American Reviewers,' and in 1876 he published a series of papers or essays under the title of 'Darwiniana.' Dr. Gray is an associate editor of the American Journal of Science and Arts, and in 1874 he succeeded Prof. Agassiz as a Regent of the Smithsonian Institution.

The Rev. Dr. George E. Ellis is preparing for the press the course of historical lectures lately delivered by him before the Lowell Institute in Boston. Messrs. Little, Brown, & Co., will be the publishers of this work, which it is said will rank among the standard authorities on the subject of American history.

Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, have nearly ready for publication a new and revised edition of their popular "Boston Illustrated." It will include, besides the necessary corrections, a good deal of fresh matter, and a considerable number of new illustrations.

The New York Independent for June 24 contains much information about Edgar Allan Poe, chief of which is an article on "Some Myths in the Life of Poe," contributed by Mr. R.

H. Stoddard.

Messrs. Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago, are to be congratulated on the neat appearance and contents of their new periodical, the Dial, "a monthly index of current literature," Nos. 1 and 2 of which have already reached us. The first number includes an interesting account of the Dial of R. W. Emerson and the Transcendentalists, an appreciative paper by Librarian Poole on the new edition of "Hildreth's History of the United States," and other reviews, notes, bibliographical lists, &c. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are ready to receive subscriptions to this journal. Terms on application.

Mr. H. W. Longfellow has in hand the libretto of an opera, the music of which will be composed by Mr. Alfred Cellier, the author of 'The Sultan of Mocha.'

Messrs. J. B. Lippincott, Philadelphia, have in press a Dictionary of Biographical Notices of distinguished Americans, called 'The Great Living Men of Our Country.'

The Hon. James Russell Lowell, after presiding at the annual meeting of the Index Society, London, on July 9, was elected its president.

General Charles B. Norton, U.S.A., has just issued through Messrs. Chapin & Gould, Springfield, Mass., a sumptuous compilation on 'American Inventions and Improvements in Breech-loading Small Arms, Heavy Ordnance, and other Munitions of War,' with a chapter on sporting arms. He has also in preparation 'The Armies of the World, their origin, rise, progress, and present condition, illustrated with plates in colours, showing the uniforms of all branches of the service in each nation at the present day; also with several hundred wood engravings of all implements of war from the earliest period.'

We find in the New York Times the statement that 'at least six biographies are already in preparation of General James A. Garfield, the probable forthcoming President of the United States. The first is in the hands of Mr. J. R. Gilmore, and will be published by Messrs. Harpers in their 'Franklin Square Library.' The second has been undertaken by Mr. E. V. Smalley, of the New York Tribune. The third will be written by Colonel Russell H. Conwell, and published by B. B. Russell, of Boston. It is said that Messrs. Appletons also have another in hand. A Chicago house will bring out a fifth biography, and the sixth has been undertaken by Mr. Charles Carleton Coffin, and will be published as a subscription book by J. H. Earle, of Boston. The writers, so far as their names have been made public, are in each case well prepared to write a political biography, and Mr. Garfield's life has enough of the romantic and characteristic American element in it—the element of the self-made man—to give each of his biographers all the inspiration they need.'

Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co.'s list for the autumn is out earlier than that of any of the other Boston publishers, and includes a larger number of new books than one would expect from so new a firm. Perhaps the most important work announced is the elaborate 'Memorial History of Boston' (which we have already described in our issue of June 1), to consist of four quarto volumes, under the general editorship of Justin Winsor, Librarian of Harvard. The next is a new and revised edition of Spooner's 'Biographical and Technical Dictionary of Fine Arts,' edited by Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement; and 'Illustrations of the Earth's Structure Glaciers, Mountains, Volcanoes, Rivers, Valleys, Lakes, Coasts, Islands, etc.,' to consist of sufficient descriptions and heliotype impressions of photographs from Nature, by Nathaniel S. Shaler and William Morris Davis. Another work will be the Rev. James Freeman Clarke's lectures on 'Self-Culture.' William Winter will also prepare for this house a new edition of his Poems, and his charming account of 'The Trip to England.' Among the other announcements are Dr. Henry C. Angell's 'Records of the late William M. Hunt,' reprinted, with additions, from the Atlantic Monthly; 'The Peterkin Family and their Adventures,' by Miss Lucretia P. Hale; and the extension of Mr. Sweetser's 'Artist Biographies,' by the addition of the lives of Poussin, Delaroche, Holbein, Rubens, Tintoretto, Giotto, and Correggio. Messrs. Osgood & Co. have also in preparation the 'American Actor,' a series of Dramatic Biographies, edited by Laurence Hutton, for which Lawrence Barrett is writing a Life of Edwin Forrest; William Winter, Lives of the Jeffersons and of the Wallacks; Benj. E. Wolff, a life of Burton; Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement, a life of Charlotte Cushman; Kate Field, the lives of foreign actors—Rachel, Fechter, Salvini, and Ristori—who have exercised an influence on the American stage, and others will follow. Each volume will contain portraits and several illustrations. The list also includes many new and improved editions of previous publications.

Messrs. Porter & Coates, Philadelphia, have a large number of important works in preparation for the coming season, among which are 'Grecian Mythology Systematised,' by Miss S. A. Scull; and 'Elements of Physiology,' by Dr. Dunglison. They also have in press a new edition of Bancroft's 'Life of Washington,' printed from entirely new plates.

Messrs. Putnam's Sons, New York, have just issued the fourth and fifth volumes of their new illustrated 'Geoffrey Crayon Edition' of the works of Washington Irving, viz., 'Tales of a Traveller,' and 'Tales of the Alhambra.' This edition will comprise 27 vols., and will contain the complete works of Irving, unabridged, and with the author's latest revisions; and each volume will have new woodcut illustrations and steel plates, as far as the subject renders illustrations appropriate. With the first volume was issued, as an introduction to the entire works, an 'Essay upon Irving,' by Charles Dudley Warner, prepared expressly for this edition, which presents a summary of Irving's life and work, and a critical estimate of his position in literature. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. are the recognised London agents for this work.

Mr. Richard H. Stoddard has contributed the article on 'Hawthorne' to the eleventh volume of the 'Encyclopædia Britannica,' of which a new edition is publishing.

The New York Nation announces that Mr. Charles W. Tuttle has in preparation Lives of Sir Humphrey Gilbert; of Captain John Mason, the founder of New Hampshire; of Captain Francis Champernowne; Memoirs of Edward Randolph; of William Blaxton, the first settler on the site of Boston (Mass.), of Hugh Percy, Duke of Northumberland; and an historical account of the conquest of Acadia by the Dutch in 1674.

Mr. Alexander W. Thayer, United States Consul at Trieste, is still at work on his great 'Life of Beethoven,' the third and last volume of which will probably be finished in the course of a year. The work has so far appeared only in German. As soon as it is completed Mr. Thayer will prepare the English version, which is to be somewhat less full than the original.

TRADE CHANGES.

Mr. George Barrie, of 615 Sansom Street, Philadelphia, has purchased the whole business and assets of Gebbie & Barrie, publishers, which firm has been dissolved by mutual consent. Business will hereafter be conducted at the old premises, under the name of George Barrie.

OBITUARY.

Mr. George Ripley, LL.D., President of the New York Tribune Association, and literary editor of that paper, died at New York on the 4th ult. in his 78th year. He did not, however, devote his entire energies to the reviewing of books, for he was also projector and principal editor of Appleton's 'New American Cyclopædia,' in 16 volumes, and, in conjunction with the late Bayard Taylor, prepared a 'Handbook of Literature and the Fine Arts.'

On July 7, at Jersey, Robert Thacker, from phthisis, aged 43. For nearly twenty years in the publishing office of the Saturday Review. Although not the nominal, yet for many years the practical publisher; his loyalty to the interests of the paper securing the appreciation of the proprietor, as well of the late editor and the present.

Among the deaths recently announced are those of the Rev. Samuel Brodrip Bergne, in his 75th year, for many years one of the Secretaries of the British and Foreign Bible Society; of Mr. Bumpus, of Oxford Street, a member of one of the oldest houses in the London bookselling trade; and, at the age of nearly eighty years, of Mr. Benjamin Poole, the editor of the Coventry Standard and the author of a History of Coventry.

Mr. James Alexander Britten, who occupied a prominent position in the house of Whittaker & Co., Ave Maria Lane, died at the age of 66, on the 14th ult., at his residence, 314 King's Road, Chelsea, and was interred in Kensal Green Cemetery, on the 20th ult. The deceased gentleman, who was much respected in the trade, had been with Messrs. Whittaker & Co. for forty-three years; he was a Liveryman of the Stationers' Company, and one of the earliest members of the Booksellers' Provident Institution. As a mark of respect on the day of the funeral the establishment in Ave Maria Lane was closed, and the funeral was attended by Mr. Hood, the principal of the firm, and nearly all Mr. Britten's colleagues in the house.

We regret to have to announce the death of Mr. Ralph Aston Wright, of the old-established firm of R. & W. Wright, booksellers, Stafford, which occurred on the 21st inst. Mr. Wright was in his 61st year.

From the Bazaar Office.—'Stock Keeping for Amateurs,' by W. H. Ablett. A volume giving minute directions for the breeding and management of pigs, sheep, horses, cows, oxen, asses, mules, and goats, with full information as to their varieties and the treatment of their diseases. The work bears the impress of a thoroughly practical acquaintance with every branch of the subject, and it will be invaluable to the young farmer and to all who 'do a little farming.'

From Messrs. James Duffy & Sons (Dublin).—
'The Life, Times, and Correspondence of the Right Rev. Dr. Doyle, Bishop of Kildare and Leighlin,' by W. J. Fitz-Patrick, LL.D. New edition. A reprint called forth by the constant demand for copies of the original work, which had become of late years well known as a scarce book, to use a phrase sufficiently Hibernian to be fairly applied to a volume bearing the imprint of two leading Dublin publishers. The book forms most interesting reading, and, in the face of the present very general interest in all that concerns the sister country, the two well-filled volumes will be specially welcomed. The additions to the text of the first edition are numerous and important and include many important letters from the Bishop's pen, while important information is given as to the history of the times in which the eminent subject of the memoir lived, and on which he exercised no considerable influence.

From Mr. John P. Fuller.—'Three Brass Balls,' by George R. Sims. Reprinted from the Weekly Dispatch. The name of the paper in which these sketches—appropriately dedicated to 'My Uncle'—originally appeared, will be enough to show that they were written for 'the million,' but in this form they will probably reach the hands of many readers who do not see Mr. Ashton Dilke's weekly journal. The book is, to a considerable extent, a volume of sketches from the life of pawnbroking experience, and although there is of necessity a vein of sadness in many of the pages, they lift the curtain from the night side of the life of the great city, and will well repay perusal.

From Messrs. Groombridge & Sons.—'The Beekeepers' Manual,' by Henry Taylor. Revised by Alfred Watts. Seventh edition. The number of editions which this work has passed through is a sufficient proof of the position it holds in the estimation of the bee-keeping public, and it is sufficient to say that the new issue is not simply a reprint, but has been carefully revised and modernised in accordance with all the improvements which have been introduced in apiary management. The illustrations add largely to the usefulness of the work.

From Mr. John Hodges.—'The Imitation of Christ,' by Thomas à Kempis. Mr. Hodges is issuing and continuing his 'Churchman's Shilling Library' under the wider and more comprehensive title of 'Hodges's Christian Classics,' each volume being in demy 16mo., with a limp cloth cover. The popularity of the 'Imitation' is so great that a well-printed edition, such as the present, would always command a ready sale, but the series is to include works less frequently met with in convenient pocket editions, not only by English divines, but by writers of the Gallican and Latin Churches.

From the same.—'The Inner Life; or, Spiritual Guidance in the Ways of God.' Adapted from the French of L'Abbé Baudrand. This work, forming one of the series just referred to, was originally written, it is scarcely needful to say, for members of the Roman Church, but it is here translated with a distinct view to its use by English Churchmen, and to this end, the editor tells us in the preface, its expressions have sometimes been slightly altered. It forms a very complete treatise on what may be termed the religious life, using that phrase in its widest sense as applied to Christians generally, and not simply to those who have retired from the world. The various sections of the book deal with the Principles of the Inner Life; the Hindrances to the Inner Life; the Exercises of the Inner Life; on the Progress of the Inner Life; on the Fruits of the Inner Life; and Spiritual Maxims for the Inner Life.

From Mr. John Hogg. - 'Plain Living and High Thinking; or, Practical Self-Culture: Moral, Mental, and Physical.' By W. H. Davenport Adams. This volume, which is inscribed by permission to Mr. Gladstone, 'in profound and respectful admiration of a noble career and a stainless character,' deals with the subject under the three distinct heads of 'Moral Self-Culture,' "Mental Self-Culture,' and 'Physical Self-Culture.' Under the first we have chapters on life at home, life in the world, character, and conduct, Under the second, the author instructs his pupils how to read, and gives them courses of reading in English poetry, English history, English biography, English fiction, travel and discovery, English theology, miscellaneous English literature and science, and scientific text-books; while he also adds a chapter on English composition. For his dissertation on physical self-culture, Mr. Adams adopts the well-worn motto, 'Mens sana in corpore sano,' and gives a good many practical and useful hints. The book is marvellously copious, and says much for its author's breadth of reading; and its advice seems for the most part to be based on experience and common sense, as, for instance, when he says: 'The quantity and quality of mental work will govern fatigue and the necessity for rest; go to bed when you are tired and recover your lost power, you are useless up; and the effort to work when fatigue has commenced results in utter prostration; appetite for work is as necessary as appetite for food.'

From Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston & Co.—
'Sir Joshua Reynolds' (Great Artists). A compact crown octavo, in tasteful limp cloth, with seventeen illustrations from famous paintings. The work begins with a list of books on Reynolds, and a chronology of his life. The volume itself is, of course, a biography as seen in the artist's works, the most famous of which come under notice in the order of production. An index closes the work.

From the same.—R. Brown's 'Notes on the Northern Atlantic.' Compiled for the use of travellers from authentic sources. Early traders, discoveries, post-office packets, establishment of steam service, dangers of the voyage, physical geography, animal life, icebergs, fisheries, whale and seal catching, &c., are the heads of the chief divisions. Here are a couple of interesting 'notes':—

The 'Great Western' started from Bristol on her first voyage on the 7th of April (1838 or 1839), and reached New York on the 23rd. The 'President' made five voyages to New York, but was lost on her homeward voyage in April 1841.

From the National Temperance Publication Depot.—'Little Blue Jacket, and other Stories.' By M. A. Paull. A budget of little tales for little folks, all illustrating the vice of drunkenness or the virtue of temperance. In the first story, which gives its title to the volume, the hero becomes transformed from a blue-jacket into a paymaster—a process which will perhaps seem a little strange to naval readers—and in each case temperance brings its own reward.

Orell, Füssli, and Co., Zürich.— 'Switzerland Illustrated.' A series of crown 8vo. handbooks of some 40 pages each, with tinted plates, engravings, and a map of the district on the cover of each. Those we have seen are No. 1. Arth-Rigi rail; 2. Uetliberg rail; 3. Viltznau-Rigi rail; 4. Rorschach-Heiden rail; 5. Waldensweil-Einsiedeln rail; 6. Thun and the Lake of Thun; 7. Interlaken; 8. The Upper Engadine. Their extreme lightness and convenience for packing, will commend these useful guides.

From Mr. Edward Stanford.—'Tourist's Guide to the West Riding of Yorkshire.' By G. Phillips Bevan, F.G.S., F.S.S. Second edition. The author's aim is declared in the preface to be to supply a cheap and portable guide book as a fitting accompaniment to a cheap tour, or, in other words, to give in a handy little pocket volume all that the tourist can really need in order to enable him to make his holiday trip with as little waste of time as possible, and at the same time to see all that ought to be seen. Full directions are given for excursions both by rail and road. The descriptions are concise and unencumbered by unnecessary details, and the maps are admirable.

From the same.—'The Parliamentary Poll Book of all Elections from the Passing of the First Reform Act in 1832 to July 1880, with an Alphabetical List of all Candidates within that period.' By F. H. McCalmont, B.C.L., M.A. A very admirable and useful parliamentary handbook, supplying the population, number of members, number of electors in each constituency; the members elected and the unsuccessful candidates, with their political party, at each contest, and the number of votes they polled on each occasion. The book seems to have been most carefully compiled, and as a proof of the editor's efforts to bring its information down to the date of publication, we have Mr. Edward Clarke's return for Plymouth duly recorded. May we suggest to Mr. McCalmont—as he invites hints—that a list of constituencies for which members are unseated on petition would, although somewhat of a black list, form a most useful addition to his book?

From The Sunday School Union .- 'The Gloucester Martyr: a Sketch of the Life, Times, and Martyrdom of John Hooper, Bishop of Gloucester and Worcester, by William Higgs. This little volume, from the pen of the Secretary of the recent Sunday School Centenary Celebration in Gloucester, gives a summary of the life of Bishop Hooper, from contemporaneous records, interwoven with a sketch of his precursors in the work of the English Reformation. The tone of the book is as strongly Protestant as Bishop Hooper himself could have desired, and the author takes from Foxe the melancholy story of the prelate's martyrdom, the scene of which is now marked by a monument engraved as the frontispiece to the present work. At the same time Mr. Higgs is very far from sharing the intolerant spirit of not a few of those who, while condemning Romanism, refuse to see in it any elements of good, and he cites the efforts of Borroméo in founding what was virtually a Sunday School in Milan as a proof that, 'although mixed up with superstitious and objectionable practices, "a good work was being done on the whole." Mr. Higgs closes his interesting little volume with the expression of an opinion that if Bishop Hooper had been spared to take part in the Convocation which subsequently framed the Constitution of the Church of England, some of the usages to which he objected would not have been retained, and 'Nonconformity and Dissent, in some of its aspects, and the Ritualism which is still such an occasion of discord and schism, might have been unknown.

From Messrs. Ward, Lock & Co. -– Mason's 'Holiday Companion.' A book for all who go from home. It is thus divided: Seaside, the pedestrian, driving, bicycling, riding, &c., foreign travel, inns, innkeepers, &c., dress, naturalists' notes, health, ailments, accidents, &c., favourite spas at home and abroad, the naturalist's and holiday-maker's calendar, &c. &c.; a capital shilling's-worth.

From the same.—'Sick Nursing: a Handbook for all who have to do with Cases of Disease and Convalescence.' Another volume of Messrs. Ward & Lock's 'Long Life Series.' The author's aim is to disseminate a knowledge of the principles of sick-nursing among the masses, and to accomplish this admirable design his instructions are given in simple and intelligible phraseology. The work is divided under various heads, such as the nursing of adults, the nursing of children, baths, applications, diet during disease and convalescence, cookery for the sick-room, &c.; and the directions on each head seem to be remarkably practical and complete.

From the same.—'Illustrated Guide to the Channel Islands.' First we have the voyage, then the history of these once French possessions; then Jersey, Guernsey, Sark, Herm, and Jethon, described in detail, with abundant engravings to show the variety and beauty of the scenery. Of maps there are seven, giving the islands on an unusually good scale, and the ports of starting from England are passed in review.

From the same.—Egglestone and Seelye's 'Shawnee Prophet.' A new volume of the Boys' Illustrated Library of Heroes, Patriots, and Pioneers, with page plates, tinted, of hair-breadth 'scapes by flood and field, which are unexpectedly relieved by tranquil woodcuts at the end of each chapter, representing scenes of still life. We doubt not that the young readers for whom the book is intended will eagerly seize it.

From Messrs. W. B. Whittingham & Co.— 'Sermonic Fancy Work on the Figures of Our Firs Acquaintances in Literature, by John Paul Ritchie. Second edition. We are not surprised to find that this clever little book, to which we gave a cordial welcome on its first appearance, has reached a second edition, and that the second edition is already in its second thousand. The idea of preaching a sermon on the homely stories and nursery rhymes associated with such personages as Little Jack Horner, Jack Spratt and his wife, Jack and Jill, Little Bopeep, and Little Miss Muffit, was in itself an excellent one, but everything in such a case depended on the execution of the idea, and on this, as we said in our former notice, Mr. Ritchie may be congratulated. He has carefully avoided the slightest tendency to irreverence, and his thoughts are, for the most part, clothed in language of considerable beauty and originality.

We have also received.—The Union Jack (Griffith & Farran) monthly part—Journal of American Banking (Rhedes & Co., New York) July-'County Atlas of Wales' (J. Heywood)—Horn's 'Geography for Elementary Schools' (J. Heywood).—The Churchman (Stock) monthly magazine—Sylvia's Home Journal (Ward, Lock & Co.) enlarged by 16 pages—Milliner and Dressmaker, with coloured plates, &c.—Church Sunday School Magazine—Mrs. Beeton's Household Management (Ward, Lock & Co.), part 10—'Derivative Dictionary' (Ward, Lock & Co.), part 5—Science Gossip (Bogue) - Cruden's 'Concordance' (Ward, Lock & Co.), illustrated, part 10—Beeton's Illustrated Encyclopædia (Ward, Lock & Co), part 10—'Brussels Exhibition' (Stanford) Visitor's Guide — 'Charles O'Malley,' illustrated (Ward, Lock & Co.), part 10—'Coppee's Waif,' translated by Oxley (Kerby & Endean)—Golden Childhood for August — Illustrated Household Journal (Ward, Lock & Co.), and Englishwoman's Domestic Magazine.

Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston & Co.'s magazines for August are—Men of Mark, portraits in permanent photography of Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke, the late Mr. Tom Taylor, and of Mr. Alma-Tadema the painter, with biographical notices—the new number of Mr. Black's Sunrise —South Kensington Museum for August—Great Historic Galleries of England, by Lord Ronald Gower—The Etcher, with examples—and London Society, with engravings and light reading for a vacant hour.

GEIKIE'S SCHOOL SERIES.

By CUNNINGHAM GEIKIE, D.D.

GEIKIE'S PRIZE COPY-BOOKS.

Nos. 1 to 21. Price 2d. each.

SOME NOTICES OF THE PRESS.

'The competition in the copy-book department of school requirements seems to be even more intense than in that of reading-books. The ingenuity displayed in giving freshness and variety to the different sets that appear is wonderful. The set before us is not new. It has established a reputation; and as its merits become more widely known, it will certainly be more widely used. As regards ruling, heading, figuring, and lettering, we know of nothing superior.'

'We are much pleased with these copy-books.... Of the penmanship and its arrangement we can speak in the highest terms. The models are beautiful specimens of caligraphy, and the exercises included in the twenty-one numbers of the series leave nothing to be desired. No. 15 of the series consisting of beautiful specimens of "text" and "small-hand" writing, is well adapted for pupil teachers, as a preparation for the annual tests in penmanship. Good copy-books are by no means rare nowadays, but these new candidates for popular favour can justly be classed among those in the front rank.'-THE SCHOOLMASTER.

'This long series of writing copy-books commend themselves to notice for the author's elaborate devices for guiding the hand of the pupil in the earlier stages of his work, for the good quality of the styles-of writing taught, for the interest and variety of the information sought to be impressed upon the memory in the subject-matter of many of the advanced exercises, for the thought bestowed upon the commercial copies in the introduction of letter-writing, book-keeping, account-keeping, financial transactions, and generally for the range and exhaustive completeness of the series.'

SCHOOL BOARD CHRONICLE.

GEIKIE'S READING-BOOKS.

'The binding is admirably calculated to stand the wear and tear of ordinary school usage, whilst the type and excellent wood-engravings speak with equal strength on behalf of the skill of the engraver and the printer. But our warmest praise is due to Dr. Geikie. He has produced a series which will commend itself to practical teachers. In the earlier books of the series the plan pursued has been to introduce one sound at a time, and thus every sound is properly studied. and ample practice is provided to secure it in the pupil's mind. In the advanced numbers of the series the difficult words are placed at the head of the lessons, properly syllabified and accepted. Few reading-books are so carefully and scientifically graduated as these.'—THE SCHOOLMASTER.

'They are based on a principle consistently carried out in all—that, namely, of enabling the pupil to master the various symbols which express the vowel-sounds, by illustrating only one at a time, and doing that very thoroughly.'-Scotsman. Likely to be attractive as well as instructive. The Third Book is calculated to be the delight of the child who has travelled so far. The educational element is very conspicuous in the shape of spelling exercises, derivations, explanatory notes, and the like. Full of pleasant, fresh, attractive, and improving reading.'—School Board Chronicle.

GEIKIE'S SPELLING-BOOK.

'Provincialisms and vulgar words of pronunciation will become a thing of the past if Dr. Geikie's book in English Spelling is fairly mastered.'—SHEFFIELD INDEPENDENT.

'Remarkably complete.'—WESTERN TIMES.

'We like Dr. Geikie's Spelling-book very much.... Its appearance leads us to hope we will fall back on the good old systematic teaching of the Spelling-book.'—School Board Chronicle. 'The Spelling-book is the best out by far.'-COVENTRY HERALD.

'Dr. Geikie's Spelling-book commends itself by its careful and systematic arrangement. Its distinguishing characteristic is its thoroughness. To those about to purchase spelling-books we would recommend an inspection of this book as one very likely to meet their requirements.'-Schoolmaster.

GEIKIE'S POETRY BOOKS.

'Likely to prove very useful in schools.'-ROCK.

'A great number of the best authors have been laid under contribution, and difficult words and passages are explained by notes. They are carefully selected, and well suited to be read, understood, and learned by children.'—Scotsman.

' Has afforded us much pleasure in the perusal. The notes and explanations give not only a knowledge of style and words, but enable the scholar thoroughly to grasp the meaning of each selection from the poets. We heartily wish that more compilers worked on the same principle.'—NORTH BRITISH MAIL.

Deserve the inspection of every teacher who is seeking a suitable collection of standard poetry for his pupils.' SCHOOLMASTER.

GEIKIE'S SCHOOL HISTORY OF ENGLAND.

'This History has evidently been compiled with great care, and is in every respect well adapted to facilitate the work of the teacher. An Appendix of 28 pages is devoted to contemporary events in English and General History, arranged in parallel columns—an admirable feature in a School History.'—Educational News, Edinburgh. 'This is one of the best School Histories of England we have yet read. We can strongly recommend it as an excellent book for students in this department of knowledge.'-IRISH TEACHERS' JOURNAL.

THE ST. NICHOLAS MAGAZINE.

Its Special Features are, the Great Variety and Interest of its Literary Contents, and the Beauty and Profuseness of its Illustrations.

It is an immense success in America, and is equally appreciated in this country, wherever introduced.

The Illustrations surpass anything yet attempted in any publication for Young People, and the Stories are by the Best living Authors of Juvenile Literature.

Each Part contains, on an average, Fifty Illustrations.

SOME OPINIONS OF THE ENGLISH PRESS.

JOHN BULL says: -- 'With each month it establishes more and more firmly its place as the Magazine for Girls and Boys. . . . Those who have young folks for whose amusement they are in duty bound to cater should give St. Nicholas a trial; and when they have once made acquaintance with him, they are not likely to give him up so long as there is a youthful reader left in the family.'

The EXAMINER says:—

'Both engravings and text are of such excellent quality that, if the generality of juvenile books in this country could be supplanted by it, the next generation would do much towards removing the charge of bad taste in matters of art which is so justly brought against the masses of the English people. We find in St. Nicholas contributions from the most renowned pens—from Longfellow, Bryant, Carroll, Alcott, and Winthrop, illustrated with a delicacy and richness of colour rarely to be met with in any children's books here, and never in any of the children's magazines. The sketch and portrait of Miss Alcott are especially interesting.'

The INQUIRER says:—'Do any of our readers want to know a good Magazine for their young folk?—one that they can put unhesitatingly into the hands of children able to read to themselves? If so, we recommend them to try St. Nicholas, which is the American Magazine for the young. We have before us the numbers for November and December, the former commencing a new volume, and, as our American friends would say, they are real fine. Naturally, some of the authors who contribute are unknown to us, but we fancy we have heard before of R. A. Proctor, Lewis Carroll, H. W. Longfellow, William Cullen Bryant, Gail Hamilton, and Miss Alcott. Mr. George Macdonald, too, is a promised contributor. The illustrations, of which there are plenty, are well done; the paper is good, the printing is clear; the cover is neat; and the whole tone of the magazine is excellent. We know of no magazine of the kind in this country equal to it.

The COURT CIRCULAR says:—

'ST. Nicholas, which is Scribner's illustrated magazine for girls and boys, is one of the best works of the class. It is filled with pretty historical anecdotes, comic stories and verses, charmingly illustrated, and numberless directions for different sorts of fancy work and manufacture adapted to the capacity of the very young.'

*Can be highly recommended, both for the excellence of its execution and the character of the articles, tales, and engravings.'—BATH CHRONICLE.

This children's magazine needs but to become known in order to make it a favourite.'—DUNDEE TELEGRAPH.

'This excellent periodical.... We don't know a more agreeable monthly guest than ST. NICHOLAS.

SHEFFIELD POST. 'It is, without doubt, unequalled in every department. No English magazine can equal it in illustrations, neither can any English magazine approach it in real humour or originality.... The stories have a freshness and piquancy not found in any other child's magazine.'

DERBY MERCURY, November 21.

- 'Admirably got up.'—Nonconformist.
- 'No praise could be exaggerated in speaking of this charming monthly. The children who are the happy recipients of this wonderful magazine are indeed a favoured race. The pictures are perfect; indeed, we cannot conceive improvement possible in any department.' DERBY MERGURY, December 12.
- 'In every respect an admirable serial. Its literary contents are of a high class, and the illustrations reach a standard seldom equalled in magazines.'

LIVERPOOL COURIER.

'It probably stands foremost in its class of literature.' BATH CHRONICLE.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

- 'Deserves to be one of the most popular of drawing-room table-books.'—THE ATHENZEUM.
- The age has not produced so valuable an art book.'-THE ART JOURNAL.
- 'The richness of this country in treasures of Art is proverbial; but equally proverbial is the difficulty experienced by the general public in getting a sight of most of the paintings, sculptures, carvings, gems, and prints, stored in both public and private galleries and museums. "The Great Historic Galleries of England" is an admirable work, whose object is to bring before the public, by means of large scale photography, faithful reproductions—excepting, of course, as regards colour—of the more remarkable pictures. The work is under the able editorship of Lord Ronald Gower, and is published by Messrs. S. Low & Co., in monthly parts, each containing three excellent photographs, with descriptive and historical letterpress. An édition de luxe, printed on large paper by a new method of autotype obviating the necessity of 'mounting,' is in preparation. When complete, the work will form a very valuable collection. The series will include, amongst other interesting subjects, reproductions of some of the miniatures at Windsor Castle.—The Graphic.

'The publication is perhaps unparalleled for cheapness.'-DAILY NEWS.

NOW READY, PART VI., PRICE ONE SHILLING, OF

SOUTH KENSINGTON MUSEUM.

Examples of the Works of Art in the Museum, and of the Decorations of the Buildings,

WITH BRIEF DESCRIPTIONS.

EACH PART CONTAINS STEEL AND WOOD ENGRAVINGS OF OBJECTS IN THE EXHIBITION.

The Kensington Museum is a treasure-house of art. It was a happy thought to produce some few of its choice and costly subjects by the graver's art for popular circulation. . . . In every way admirable. The letterpress is perfect, the engravings are finished works of art, the price (one shilling) brings it within the reach of all. When will Glasgow rise to the occasion, and emulate the fame of the Kensington Museum? We commend this work to the attention of the municipal authorities who have this subject under consideration. It will instruct them, by the seeing of the eye, after what fashion a museum building should be reared, and with what objects it ought to be stored.'

GLASGOW HERALD.

- 'Promises to be of immense value to art students, and to that still larger body of persons who take an interest in art treasures either for their beauty, their inconceivable ugliness, or their rarity.'—Liverpool Courses.
- 'Promises to be of great interest and value to provincial students of art, intelligent artisans, and the public generally.'—BRISTOL MERCURY.
- 'It promises to be a very beautiful, and it is certainly a very cheap, publication.'

 CIVIL SERVICE GAZETTE.

'The new serial devoted to the diffusion of information regarding the South Kensington Museum continues to fulfil its useful mission, in a manner that leaves nothing to be desired. Month after month, at a charge within reach of the most moderate means, there are issued fascicles of plates fitted to convey the most accurate impressions, not only as to the design, but also as to the style of workmanship of notable objects in the great national collection. Next to studying on the spot, no better means could be desired of becoming acquainted with those masterpieces of ancient industrial art, which are admittedly so rich in suggestions for the craftsmen of our own days.'

SCOTSMAN.

'The task of gleaning from the treasures of the Kensington Museum the most interesting examples goes on with literary ability and artistic skill.'—DUNDER ADVERTISER.

- 'We have again to direct the attention of lovers and students of decorative art to this publication.'

 DUNBARTON HERALD.
- 'Will be of great advantage to students, and is calculated to promote the cause of art generally.'

 HAMPSHIRE ADVERTISER.
- 'We have already warmly recommended this important work to the notice of artisans in the decorative trades, and need only repeat that it deserves the widest circulation.'

BRISTOL MERCURY.

'The objects of this well-designed serial are to familiarise the public mind with the artistic work of past ages and to cultivate a refined taste.'

COURT JOURNAL.

- 'Promises when completed to be a valuable record of the art treasures of South Kensington.'

 JOHN BULL.
- 'In this series are promised representations of Decorative Art of all countries and all times, so that art education is likely to be very usefully assisted and promoted. The etchings before us are most carefully executed, and we have no hesitation in highly commending this praiseworthy effort to reach the masses.'

East Suffolk Gazette.

- 'The art of all countries and of all times will be represented in this work, and as an instalment, the present number (No. 3) conveys a very favourable impression of what the work will prove to be.'

 YORKSHIRE POST.
- 'Will be of great use and interest to all lovers of art and especially to art students. . . . The plates are very well executed and printed.'

ACADEMY.

Rev. Henry George Tomkins, Member of the Society of Biblical Archæology, &c. Profusely Illustrated in Chromo-lithography and Photo-tint. 4to. cloth extra, 16s.

This work is not a new biography of Abraham, but gives an account of the civilised world in which he lived, from Elam on the East to Egypt on the West, drawn from the existing results of Egyptological and Assyriological research, and elucidates the true position and character of the patriarch. The illustrations are chosen from an ethnographic point of view, as specimens of the leading races of the early world.

'Mr. Tomkins has produced a very vivid and truthful picture of the surroundings of Abraham.'—ACADEMY.

Notice.—We desire to draw attention of Correspondents under this head, 'Books Wanted,' to an off-repeated caution to be careful not to remit cash or stamps without being fully satisfied of the bona sides of the communications, as SWINDLERS have adopted the plan of reporting books and requiring stamps in payment; but their only address is found to be a local post-office; on the other hand, our subscribers should be careful in supplying books to advertisers unknown to them.
