183 FLEET STREET : February 1, 1882.

HE proposal recently made by Mr. Thoms in the pages of the Athenæum, for the establishment in London of a Library of Reviews and Magazines with indices, has met with ficient support to bring it within ' the range of practical politics,' and the only difficulty that likely to present itself is one of ' ways and means.' These who know by experience how and it is to secure sufficient support for any venture which appeals mainly to literary men, d still more for a scheme chiefly calculated to benefit literary workers, will readily admit the secure of Mr. Robert Harrison's argument, that it would be almost impossible to make such institution self-supporting, owing to the limited number of persons who would subscribe such an object for any considerable number of consecutive years. While, however, the intence of this obstacle must be allowed, it is obvious that the possibility of reference to sets such magazines as the Gentleman's would be of immense advantage, and in a city so wealthy london it ought not to be difficult to secure co-operation both in gifts of money and of and a sufficient of a 'learned librarian' mean before the safe custody of the books, the use of which could easily be made conditional upon the production of the card or written authority of a subscriber. If to the magazines could be added files of the principal London newspapers, a set of Palmer's Index to the Times, sets of the Annual Register, the British Almanack and Companion, and other works of reference for facts and dates, the value of the collection would be materially increased. Perhaps it might be found practicable to form in London a club for literary men who cannot aspire to the Athenæum, or whose needs will not allow them to wait over the long period between proposal and admission, which is such a serious hindrance to the coveted entrée to its portals, and in that case the suggested library might find a home in the Club House. A building in one of the off streets near Charing Cross or on the Ducal estate, in what is now fast becoming the booksellers' quarter of Covent Garden, might be obtained at a comparatively reasonable rental, and two unsupplied wants might thus be met under one roof. A club which would form a rallying-point for authors, journalists, publishers, and other men of books, subject to careful regulations as to admission, and which offered a combination of creature comforts and literary conveniences at a moderate cost, would prove to be a decided boon to many men who are now without a footing in Club-land.

The movement for establishing public libraries has found a fitting and eloquent supporter in Lord Lytton, who, at the opening of the new Public Library at St. Albans, last week, warmly commended the resolution of the citizens to adopt the Public Libraries Act, and their energy in freeing the library from debt before its opening. In contemplating the intellectual condition of England, the Earl said that it seemed to him that there was nothing about it more remarkable or honourable than the vigour with which knowledge was being pursued, not only in the great towns, but by the bulk of the people throughout every part of the country. There were some persons who viewed the tendency of this movement with mistrust, and who were disposed to deprecate its activity. But those were men who were generally indisposed to welcome movement of any kind. If they were talked to about ironclads or breech-loaders, they solemnly responded that Trafalgar was won with wooden frigates, and that Waterloo was fought with Brown Bess. A captain of a modern steamer, it was conceded, might be very well informed, but it was pointed out that he was hardly better than Columbus. The Earl said he was not himself an ardent democrat, but if the tendencies of the time were democratic it largely depended upon the diffusion of knowledge, and the appreciation of that knowledge, whether they should have an enlightened and cultivated or an ignorant democracy. He preferred the enlightened and cultivated democracy; and if any one complained that it was not accompanied by any dazzling geniuses, there was nothing in the constitution of modern society which prevented that gentleman from supplying the deficiency with his own genius. Of all intellectual weapons, literature was, no doubt, one of the most potent; and between the literature which was now addressed to the public, and that which was addressed to it towards the close of the last century, there was a marked and satisfactory difference. It was difficult to measure the immense stride which had been taken. Cheapness had not lowered literature or injured commercial interests; and the public, instead of being written down to, were now written up to. As a stimulus to those who should hereafter frequent the library, he mentioned an incident in his own career. While in Paris, some years ago, he happened to enter the house of a very clever fellow countryman, who informed him that his whole life and fortune had been altered by reading a work of fiction, 'Night and Morning.' On hearing the facts, Lord Lytton said he felt as proud of his father, who was the author of the book, as if he had won Waterloo.

Mr. Henry G. Bohn has been led, by the interest excited in the forthcoming sale of the Hamilton Library, of which we gave some account in our last issue, to publish a note of the share which he had in its formation. All the books added to the library since 1831, when Mr. Bohn commenced business on his own account; were, he says, supplied exclusively by him, partly to the Duke of Hamilton, and partly to Mr. Beckford, who was then at Bath. He continues: 'They used at first to come together at an appointed time, and usually selected somewhat largely from the literary and artistic treasures which I had recently accumulated during a long and opportune tour on the Continent. After this early period they collected separately, and it did not then transpire that the libraries were eventually to become united, as each at times was desirous of securing the same book. Their tastes, however, diverged rather conveniently for me, the Duke going in ardently for illuminated manuscripts, carly printed and especially Italian books with engraved illustrations, editiones principes, and book printed on yellum ; while Mr. Beckford, who was the greatest book on thusiast I ever knew, preferred Aldines, and other early books bearing the insignia of celebrities such as Francis I. Henri et Diane, and De Thou, and especially choice old moracco bindings by Desseuil, Pasde loup, and De Rome. He closely watched all, the great sales, both in London and Paris, and always held his commissions, which were left entirely to my discretion, and I never ventured This lot W to lose a lot, whether cheap or dear, but once, for which I was smartly robuked. a variorum Cæsar, bound by De Rome, which Llet ga at the extravagant price of 15 guines to his rival collector in old French bindings, the late Dr. Charles Parr Burney ; and, curious enough, this very book came to the hamper, again a few years after Mr. Beckford's death, and Feb. 1, 1882 coming to my house almost daily during the London season, and had the choice of whatever I had meanwhile acquired, and seldom went away with an empty carriage. He was generally prompt and decided, but on occasion he hesitated day after day about a beautiful little missal at 100 guineas, which, the moment he relinquished it, I sold, much to his discomfiture, for he next day he changed his mind, and became anxious to have it, but too late. With regard to the Fonthill Library, this, with the rest of the property, was sold in its entirety, by the agency of Mr. Harry Phillips, to the millionaire, Mr. Farquhar, and subsequently, under his direction, by auction, September 1833. Mr. Beckford, I believe, reserved nothing which was there, but at the sale bought some of his favourite books by means of agency. His portion of the present library, therefore, was collected between that period and 1844, the year of his death, and it will be seen that he collected very actively. As soon as the Duke came into possession of Mr. Beckford's library he had it valued for probate by a house-agent at Bath who knew little or nothing about books, but, governed by the cost prices marked inside, and the help of a rough inventory, he estimated it at £20,000, which the Duke considered so exaggerated a valuation that he immediately summoned me to Bath to have my opinion. arrived the next morning, and after a few hours' examination, found that the valuation was within the mark, and as the Duke had intimated a wish to sell, I made him an offer of £30,000. payable within a week, which he would have accepted, but for the intervention of the Duchess, whose property it really was, by the bequest of her father. Fortunately for the present race of collectors, the library was not sold to me, and as literary bijoux and choice binding are strongly in the ascendant, I have no doubt but that something like $\pm 50,000$ will be realised for it. After the determination not to accept my offer, the books were carefully packed up and removed to Hamilton Palace, where as soon as I could be spared from London, I sorted and arranged them on shelves which had been specially arranged by the Duke's architect. For the convenience of reference, I found it necessary to put the rough inventory into alphabetical order, which I afterwards bound in four volumes folio, and this, which has a few of my corrections, is, I believe, the only catalogue extant. I always intended to make a catalogue worthy of my name, but never found time. It has now, however, fallen into very good hands.' Having described the hospitality of the Duke, and the banquets which formed stately and pleasant interludes to his work in the library, Mr. Bohn adds a note on the original Hamilton library : 'This, though not so voluminous as the Beckford, will, I think, prove of greater commercial value, inasmuch as it comprises, besides some early printed volumes of great value, and rare Scottish literature, many most precious illuminated manuscripts bought in Germany and Italy in his early days before he inherited the dukedom. He was so devoted to works of art that, to secure an antique jewelled coffer of exquisite workmanship, then on sale in Florence for between $\pm 2,000$ and $\pm 3,000$, he stayed there for a year or more until his paternal allowance enabled him to pay for it, and this is, or ought to be, still at Hamilton Palace."

In the Queen's Bench Division, on Monday, the 23rd ult., before Mr. Justice Denman and a common jury, the case of Roche v. Brown was heard. This was an action on a bill of exchange for £55. 2s., accepted by the defendant, who simply pleaded infancy. The plaintiff is a bookseller in business at Southampton Row, Bloomsbury. In October 1880, the defendant, by letter, ordered a supply of books, amounting in the aggregate to £62.13s. The order included 223 volumes of the Gentleman's Magazine; 'English Encyclopædia,' 22 volumes; Gibbon's 'Roman Empire,' 12 volumes ; Addison's 'Essays,' 'The Complete Grazier,' 'Hankey on Banking,' 'Cruise of the Alabama,' Southey's 'Life and Correspondence,' 'History of the Drama,' &c. In January 1881, three days before he came of age, the defendant gave the acceptance now sued on in payment of his account, but it was not met. It was alleged on behalf of the defendant that he had only put the plea of infancy on the record after the plaintiff's solicitors had refused to give him time for payment. His lordship in summing up said that, as there was evidence of infancy, the only question for the jury would be whether the books, or any of them, were 'necessaries.' They found a verdict for the defendant.

Professor Huxley is now engaged on a work on Bishop Berkeley and his contributions to mental and medical science, which the Professor and his friends anticipate will prove his magnum opus.

The issue of sixpenny editions seems rapidly on the increase. Messrs. Macmillan & Co. will shortly publish a people's edition of 'Tom Brown's School Days,' with illustrations. Messrs. Chapman and Hall also contemplate the publication of a sixpenny edition of Carlyle's 'Sartor Resartus,' to be published before long; and Messrs. Routledge are about to try the experiment with the late W. H. Ainsworth's 'Tower of London.'

The Cornhill Magazine for February will contain the first part of a new story, entitled 'Damocles,' by the author of 'For Percival' &c., with illustrations by Mr. W. Small; and, in the April number, will be commenced a novel, entitled 'No New Thing,' by the author of 'Mademoiselle de Mersac,' 'Matrimony,' with illustrations by Mr. du Maurier.

Mr. O'Donovan, for some time the special correspondent of the Daily News. in Central Asia, and more recently imprisoned at Merv, has made arrangements with Messrs. Smith, Elder, & Co. for publishing his experiences in that region.

The first annual meeting of the Topographical Society of London will be held on Friday next at Drapers' Hall, the Lord Mayor in the chair. The first set of the sheets of 'Wyguerde's View of London' (facsimile) is being issued to the members.

Much interest will be felt in a posthumous article by Dean Stanley on F. W. Robertson, which appears in the new number of the Century Magazine.

Miss Agnes Rous Howell is to contribute a new serial tale, 'Saddled and Bridled,' to the next volume of the Churchman's Shilling Magazine, commencing with the March number. In the same magazine will be commenced 'The Life Story of Flowerless Plants,' by N. D'Anvers, Author of 'Vegetable Life,' 'Forms of Land and Water,' 'Lowest Forms of Water Animals,' &c., a series of twelve articles, embodying the latest researches in vegetable physiology, such as discoveries in connection with the eradication of disease, &c., edited by Mr. George F. Chantrell, late President of the Microscopical Society, Liverpool. The author will treat of General Cell-development of Vegetable Organisms; Special Cell-development and Vital Functions of Vegetable Organisms; Giant Ancestors of Flowerless Plants; Vegetable Disease-Germs, and how to Destroy their Poison (Bacteria, &c.); Innocuous Vegetable Microcosms (Desmids, Diatoms, Volvoces, &c.); Scale-Mosses, Liver-Worts, and Crystal-Worts; Characeæ of the Past and Present; Seaweeds, Far and Near; Lichens at Home and Abroad; Fungi as Promoters of Health; Fern-life at Home; Fern-life Abroad. An 'Early Scottish Text Society' is being formed for the purpose of editing and publishing the more important texts in early Scottish literature, down to the time when the language began to lose its distinctive characteristics. The Rev. Walter Gregor, M.A., care of Messrs. Blackwood & Sons, 45 George Street, Edinburgh, is acting as Secretary. Mrs. Wood announces, in view of damages said to have been granted to a Mr. Thomas Ashcroft Palmer, of Red Lion Square, for an infringement of his copyright by representing the drama of 'East Lynne,' that the copyright of 'East Lynne' is her own. Mr. A. Fischer, of St. Bride Street, Ludgate Circus, is issuing, in a neat portfolio, a set of German plates of the 'Crowns of all Nations,' designed by A. Göhre. The crowns and coronets are arranged on separate sheets under their various nationalities, the names being given in German, French, and English. We question the paternity of the hat included on the ecclesiastical sheet as a Bishop's; it is simply an ordinary wide-a-awake of the style affected by Ritualist clergymen. Messrs. Hutchings & Crowsley (Limited), of Henry Street, St. John's Wood, are publishing a local paper for Kilburn, Hampstead, and the vicinity, entitled The Home Journal. The literary merit of its contents is considerably above the average of the suburban papers. The following gentlemen are amongst the candidates for the vacant Bodleian librarianship :-- Mr. Richard Garnett, of the British Museum ; Mr. E. B. Nicholson, of the London Institution ; and Prof. R. K. Douglas, of the British Museum. The election to the office is announced to take place on Saturday next.

The Publishers' Circular

Mr. E. B. Nicholson has resigned his seat upon the Council of the Library Association.

We have received the first number of the Philanthropist, a new monthly journal, published in the interests of 'Social Philanthropic Movements and Institutions.'

A literary clergyman—the Editor of the Quiver—is, according to the Rock, marked out for good thing, for our contemporary says that the next Canonry vacant at St. Paul's, Westminster, or Windsor, is to be given to the Rev. Teignmouth Shore.

The number of publications issued from the French press last year is officially stated to have been 18,717. These include pictures, maps, music, and photographs; but the books and amphlets, nevertheless, number 12,261, which is more than double the number of the publications ordinarily appearing in Great Britain of which we have any record. In France, nowever, the 'dépôt légal' includes many publications of a kind which in England are apt to escape notice. These figures, it is observed, show a slight falling off as compared with the returns of the preceding two years.

The Sunday School Institute's new monthly paper, The Church Worker, has made its ppearance. Its literary workmanship might be improved with advantage; in fact, at present t contains little more than a selection of papers on Sunday school matters, whereas its title mplies that all forms of Church work come within its scope.

The February number of the Ladies' Gazette of Fashion is extremely well provided with llustrations, which include engravings of fashionable costumes and mantles, with several lesigns for needlework and painting. Amongst the latter are free designs of the Passion-flower nd rhododendron. Three coloured plates are presented with the number.

Messrs. Tinsley Brothers will shortly publish a novel entitled 'Dark Rosaleen,' by Miss D'Shee.

Messrs. Griffin & Co., Portsmouth, have just issued, as will be seen from an advertisement in nother page, an entirely new and revised edition of Captain Sir George S. Nares' 'Seamanship,' reatly enlarged, and containing over four hundred beautifully engraved woodcuts, together with 2 coloured plates.

The Princess Louise (Marchioness of Lorne) will contribute to Good Words a series of irawings illustrative of Quebec and its surroundings. They will be published immediately, with historical and descriptive notes, also a poem on Quebec by the Marquis of Lorne.

The February number of the Magazine of Art contains an article on Alnwick Castle, by he Rev. M. Creighton.

Messrs. Wilson & McCormick, of Glasgow, announce for publication, early in February, a volume of poems, entitled 'The Praise and Blame of Love, and other Verse.'

Mackeson's 'Guide to the Churches of London and its Suburbs, for 1882,' forming the inteenth annual issue, is in the press.

No. I. of The Stamp News, a monthly journal devoted to Philately, has just made its appearance. It is published by Messrs. Theodor Buhl & Co., and promises to attain great avour in the class for which it is intended.

Messrs. Nichols and Sons have just issued 'The Peerage, Baronetage, and Knightage of he British Empire for 1882,' edited by Joseph Foster, containing upwards of 1,400 engravngs of arms, &c.

We understand that a second edition of Bishop McIlvaine's Memorials, by Canon Carus, is n the press, and will be issued shortly, with some additional matter of great interest incororated in it.

Messrs. Hurst & Blackett have just issued a new novel by Miss M. A. Paull, entitled Thistledown Lodge,' in 3 vols.

A new novel by the Hon. Lewis Wingfield, called 'Gehenna,' will be published during the resent month by Messrs. Hurst & Blackett, in 3 vols., who also announce 'It is no Wonder, Story of Bohemian Life,' by J. Fitzgerald Molloy, in 3 vols.

A biographical sketch of the late Jord Justice Lush, from the pen of Mr. Charles Reade, is ^{appear} in Life. Mr. D. Christie Murray's new novel, 'A Rolling Stone,' will appear in the ^{me} journal.

Messrs. Wm. Clowes & Sons, Limited, will shortly publish a work by Mr. Serjeant Pulling, atitled 'The Order of the Coif,' embracing the history of the old order of Judges and Serants-at-Law, and the very wide range of interesting matter with which the subject is identied. It will also contain illustrative engravings and woodcuts.

Mr. J. S. Hodson's 'History of the Printing Trades Charities' is promised to appear shortly. Messrs. Griffith & Farran have in the press a new work entitled 'A Bookseller of the Last intury,' by Charles Welsh. The same publishers also announce 'The Confessions of a Meium' to appear shortly.

We understand that Messrs. Goubaud & Son will in future be the publishers of the Millia, Dressmaker, and Draper's Illustrated Household Journal.

The Right Hon. Jas. Stansfeld, M.P., is preparing an article, 'History of the Police orce,' for the Contemporary.

Messrs. Seeley & Co. have just issued a 'Portrait of George Eliot,' etched by Paul Rajon, on the drawing by Mr. F. W. Burton.

The British and Colonial Printer and Stationer is now published weekly instead of fort-

A new weekly penny paper has made its appearance under the title of the Family World.

Feb. I, 1812

It is said that Mr. Wendell Phillips contemplates writing his autobiography during the course of the present year.

Miss Edith Simcox, of the London School Board, has in the press, for publication by Messrs. Trübner & Co., Ludgate Hall, a volume of tales, entitled 'Episodes.'

A 'History of Printing at Oxford' is announced as in preparation by Mr. F. Madan, of Brasenose College. The late Archdeacon Cotton, compiler of the 'Typographical Gazetteer,' at one time contemplated such a work, and had made large collections bearing on the subject, which we believe are to be used in Mr. Madan's book.

Messrs. Seeley & Go. have made arrangements for the publication, during 1882, of a large paper edition of the Portfolio, which will in future contain two impressions of each platea proof printed on Japanese paper, and mounted, and an ordinary impression. The text will be printed on hand-made paper. The subscription will be as before, ± 10 per annum, and the edition will be limited to one hundred copies.

The Rev. William Barnes, Vicar of Winterbourne, Came, Dorsetshire, who has done much to render the Dorsetshire dialect dear to lovers of English idyllic poetry, will, before long, publish a dramatic poem of which the subject is, 'The Story of Ruth.'

The February number of Harper's Magazine will contain, among other papers of interest, a sketch of the popular actor, Henry Irving, 'at home,' by Joseph Hatton; 'A Clever Town Built by the Quakers,'an entertaining side-glance at Philadelphia, by George Parsons Lathrop; 'The Romance of the Spanish and French Explorers,' by Prof. John Fiske; 'Personal Recollections of Daniel Webster,' by Mr. John H. B. Latrobe, and the continuation of Mrs. John Lillie's 'Prudence,' a story of æsthetic London. Mrs. Elizabeth Stuart Phelps will contribute to the March number 'The Last Works of George Eliot,' with extracts from George Eliot's letters to the author. 'A Small Telescope, and What to See With It,' is the title of an article by Prof. Simon Newcomb, which will appear in the same number. 'The Bells of Shandon,' a new novel by William Black, will soon appear in Harper's Magazine.

Mr. Blanchard Jerrold is engaged on a work on Egypt, which will be published shortly. It will be entitled 'The Belgium of the East.'

A new work of Russian travel, by Signor Gallenga, whose recent letters in the Times have attracted considerable attention, is shortly to be published.

A well-known publisher in London is said to be meditating a new edition of the leading Scotch poets. It is to contain a selection of all the leading national poets from Robert Burns to William Motherwell, with notes, a glossary, and English versions of the more obscure passages printed beside them.

Lovers of Nathaniel Hawthorne will be glad to know that Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston, U.S., have in preparation a very full index to Hawthorne's complete works, by which reference can easily be made to any significant character or situation in any of Hawthorne's writings. In February will be issued by the same firm a 'Life of John Quincey Adams,'by John T. Morse, jun., as the initial volume in their series of 'American Statesmen.'

Messrs. Chapman & Hall will publish in a few days a new novel by Herman Merivale, in 3 vols., entitled ' Faucit of Balliol.'

The February number of the Deutsche Rundschau will contain an article by Professor Häckel, of Jena, the celebrated evolutionist, on his scientific researches in India, where he has been travelling since last autumn, and still is. In the same number will appear a fascinating personal reminiscence from the pen of Ivan Tourguenieff, entitled 'A Desperate One.'

At the recent 'dictionary evening' of the Philological Society, Dr. Murray gave an interesting résumé of the work for the new dictionary, for the preparation of which the society had asked the co-operation of the English-speaking world. Of the million additional quotations asked in May 1879, 900,000 had actually been received from upwards of 800 volunter readers in Great Britain, America, and the Colonies. The Royal, Linnæan, Geological, Astronomical, and other learned societies had lent their aid in the investigation of the histor of scientific terms, in order to contribute to the completeness of the work. All the important books of all ages had now been read, or were in readers' hands, for the sake of illustrative quotations. About 30 competent scholars were at work as sub-editors, arranging and preparing these, and drafting the articles. The delegates of the Clarendon Press, in view of the importance of the work, had determined upon a large extension of its limits, which will not much exceed those of Littré. It is anticipated that a first part will appear during the present year. Dr. Murray brought before the meeting many instances of the new light which the dictionary, from its historical method, will throw upon the origin and career of English works.

The honour of knighthood has been conferred upon Sir W. Andrew, whose name is well known as a writer on Indian affairs. Among his works are : 'Indian Railways, by an 04 Indian Post Master,' 1846 ; 'Memoir on the Euphrates Valley Route to India,' 1857 ; Color sation in India and Australia Compared,' 1858 ; 'The Indus and its Provinces,' 1858 ; 'The Strategic and Commercial Evils of a Break of Gauge in India,' 1874 ; 'India and her Negh bours,' 1879 ; and 'Our Scientific Frontier,' 1880 ; also of lectures delivered before the Brith Association, the Royal United Service Institution, and the Society of Arts, on railways in India, and on the Euphrates Valley route in connection with the Central Asian question. On the 25th ult., the 123rd anniversary of the birth of Burns was celebrated by a dinner the Waterloo Hotel, Edinburgh, by the Edinburgh Burns Club, Professor Donaldson presiding The toast of the evening, 'The Memory of Burns,' was proposed by the Rev. William Grahm Newhaven.

The number of Chambers' Journal which is dated January 31, 1882, completes the fiftieth year of that excellent periodical's existence. It is not easy for us, now-a-days, surrounded as we are and almost confused by the flood of cheap literature which the press now pours about us, to present to our minds a time when Chambers' Edinburgh Journal stood almost alone amongst its fellows as a purveyor of wholesome and attractive literature at a price which placed it within the reach of the people. The long and steady continuance of Chambers' Journal, in popular favour is made the more remarkable by contrast with the career of the Saturday and Penny Magazines, both of them illustrated, both published or directed by powerful societies, both full of a most excellent matter, and both of them published at a lower price. They, after a career of considerable number of years, ceased to exist, not apparently able to hold their own against a distinctly commercial venture in this number of Chambers' Journal. Dr. William Chambers, who was not merely one of the projectors of the periodical, but a constant writer in it, gives us a paper entitled 'Reminiscences of a Long and Busy Life.' We think there are few readers by whom this will not be found interesting, but it will be especially so by those who have been accustomed all their lives (we might say) to the unfailing appearance of an old and valued friend, week by week and month by month. We are sure that all our readers will join with us in the heartiest congratulations to Dr. Chambers on his having lived to see the fiftieth year of a periodical which he founded, and to which he is still a contributor.

The centenary of the Glasgow Herald was celebrated on Friday. To mark the event, the proprietors of the paper entertained some 250 gentlemen in the West of Scotland to a banquet in St. Andrew's Hall. Mr. James H. Stoddart, the editor, presided, and among those present were Lord M'Laren, Sir Michael R. Shaw-Stewart, Sir William Thomson, Sir James Watson, Sir Peter Coats, Mr. George Anderson, M.P., Mr. Archibald Orr Ewing, M.P., Mr. Charles Tennant, M.P., Colonel Alexander, M.P., Mr. R. W. Cochran-Patrick, M.P., Principal Caird, and Mr. Bret Harte. During the evening Mr. George Anderson, M.P., proposed the toast of 'The Glasgow Herald,' and expressed the opinion that the newspaper which, apart from party politics, cultivated the higher graces, might win the respect and admiration of all classes, and maintained that the Herald throughout its long career had eminently done so.

Under the auspices of the Royal Geographical Society, the first seven sheets of a new map of Eastern Equatorial Africa, on an unusually large scale, have just been published. The map has been in preparation for a considerable time by Mr. E. G. Ravenstein, and is a really splendid specimen of cartography. The entire map will occupy 25 sheets, each about 22 in. square, and the scale is 15 geographical miles to an inch, which gives ample room to exhibit all the known features of the wide region in minute detail.

The column of 'Notes and Notices,' consisting of literary and artistic jottings, which has for several months been published in our weekly contemporary the Guardian, filling the place once occupied by the 'Table Talk,' has disappeared from its pages.

On the 4th inst. the Pictorial World will be permanently enlarged to twenty-four pages of illustrations and letterpress, together with a coloured supplement every week. At the same time the price of the paper will be raised to sixpence.

The Stationery Trade Review (Edinburgh: Ormiston & Glass), which in future will make its appearance each alternate month, instead of monthly as hitherto, shows considerable improvement in its January issue, not only in regard to bulk, but as to the treatment of the varied matters which come within its ken. Nothing that can be of use to those concerned in the stationery and affiliated trades is omitted, and no trouble is spared in the endeavour to maintain the value of the journal as a really useful trade organ, while many of the items possess not a little interest for the general reader. Several of the features are unique, and we have no hesitation in commending this capital little publication to the attention of all doing business in stationery and its et ceteras. FOSTER'S COPY BOOK AND DRAWING BOOK PUBLICATIONS.—The Master of the Rolls has given judgment in the case of 'Vere Foster and John Ward v. Marcus Ward & Co.' The judgment was in favour of the plaintiffs, with costs, and directed that an inquiry should be instituted as to whether any of the stones, fifty or sixty in number, were not forthcoming, and what damage was sustained by the plaintiffs in consequence. The proprietors of The American, Philadelphia's political and literary weekly, propose to print soon a number of articles on American authors, giving such details, personal and literary, as may properly interest the public. Mr. Horace Howard Furness, the Shakespearean scholar, will be the subject of the first article. This will be followed by one on Mrs. Harding Davis, the novelist; Mr. Paul H. Hayne, the poet; Mr. Frank R. Stockton, the humourist, and others. Mr. Townsend MacCoun, Chicago, U.S., announces the publication of a new American edition of 'The Works of Benjamin Franklin,' with notes and a life of the author by Jared Sparks, in ten large octavo volumes. This edition will be issued simultaneously with an edition in London by Mr. B. F. Stevens, and will be uniform in every respect. The first volume will appear during February, and then a volume semi-monthly till completed. The edition will be limited and sold by subscription. Messrs. Henry C. Lea's Son & Co., Philadelphia, U.S., signalise the opening of the fortieth Volume of The Medical News, by a new departure in their method of issue. The News now becomes a weekly, of twenty-eight to thirty-six pages, instead of a monthly as heretofore, and Promises a vigorous and liberal treatment of all subjects affecting the medical profession.

Messrs. A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York, U.S., will soon publish the last work of the late Henry B. Smith, D.D., 'Apologetics : a Course of Lectures,' edited by Professor Wm. 8. Karr. The 'Life of John Knox' will also be added by them to the series, Heroes of Christianity; it is by the Rev. Wm. T. Taylor, D.D., Author of 'David, of Israel,' 'Paul, the Missionary,' &c.

Messrs. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York, will issue at once the fifth volume in the Campaigns of the Civil War series, 'The Antietam and Fredericksburg,' by General Francis W. Palfrey. They will also add to their new edition of the late Dr. J. G. Holland's works, a volume of 'Topics of the Time,' from Scribner's Monthly, and an entirely new series in one volume under the same title, the manuscript of which was left ready for the printer by Dr. Holland.

A new illustrated literary weekly entitled Our Continent is about to appear in Philadelphia, U.S. It will be conducted by Albion W. Tourgée, the author of 'A Fool's Errand.' Miss Kate Field is to have charge of a department devoted to co-operative work among women; and Mrs. Louise Chandler Moulton will edit a column on social customs. A decorative art department will be conducted by Mr. Donald G. Mitchell and Mr. Louis C. Tiffany. The paper will be stitched, cut, and bound in coloured covers which have been designed by Mr. Tiffany. With the first number will be given a steel plate engraving of Albion W. Tourgée, with his autograph.

Mr. J. Brander Matthews, author of 'French Dramatists of the Nineteenth Century,' is to edit the dramatic essays of Charles Lamb for the Parchment Library of Kegan Paul, Trench, & Co. He will contribute a preface on Lamb's work as a dramatist and as a critic of the drama. The volume, which will appear in the spring, will be embellished, probably, by an etching of Hogarth's portrait of Peg Woffington, now in the Garrick Club.

Among the books which the Messrs. Harper Bros., New York, have in press, are a treatise on the 'Law of Stock Brokers and Stock Exchanges,' by Mr. John R. dos Passos; and 'A Manual of Historical Literature,' by Charles Kendall Adams, LL.D. Mr. Ignatius Donnelly, a western writer, has written a volume called 'Atlantis : the Antediluvian World,' which the same firm have in press. It is said to be an attempt to link together the results of the recent deep sea soundings made by the English ship 'Challenger,' and the American vessel 'The Dolphin,' in their explorations of the bottom of the Atlantic.

Messrs. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York, U.S., have in press 'Morocco and its People,' by Edmondo de Amicis ; 'Garfield's Place in History,' by Henry C. Pedder ; 'A History of the Naval War of 1812,' by Theodore Roosevelt ; 'The Geological and Mineralogical Resources of the James River Valley of Virginia,' by J. L. Campbell. In 'Pen Pictures of Modern Authors '—the second volume of William Shepard's series on 'The Literary Life,' mentioned in our issue of the 16th ult., to be published by the same firm—will be collected a number of sketches, anecdotes, and personal reminiscences of the famous writers belonging to the present half of the nineteenth century, from Carlyle and George Eliot to Bulwer and Disraeli.

The Literary World (Boston, U.S.), in its issue of the 31st ult., gives an account of the literary production of the year 1881 throughout the world, in imitation of the articles The foreign published in the Athenaum. It is the first time this has been done in America. parts of the sketch are notably well done, and have evidently been prepared by specialists, and even the ancient region of Cathay is included under the heads of China and Japan. Copies of this number, which will be of special value to literary people, can be obtained from Sampson Low & Co. Messrs. Roberts Brothers, Boston, U.S., will bring out at once a new and thoroughly revised edition of 'Moods,' a novel published by Miss Louisa M. Alcott many years ago, but never circulated very largely—now reissued with some chapters heretofore omitted. A new monthly, the Industrial Review, covering the whole field of the industries of the United States in a technical and trade manner, is about to be started in Philadelphia. Mr. W. U. Hensel, of the Luncaster Intelligencer (Philadelphia), is writing the life of President James Buchanan. Messrs. D. Appleton & Co., New York, U.S., expect to issue this spring the first two volumes of the long-promised complete edition of the poetical and prose works of William Cullen Bryant, which has been prepared by Parke Godwin. The first volumes will contain the The next two volumes poetical writings, including a number of poems hitherto unpublished. will be devoted to essays and addresses, and the last two to the biography. A Bill will be submitted to Congress shortly by the American Library Association, enacting that one library in each congressional district, as well as another to be named by the representative, and also every library in the United States containing over 100,000 volumes, shall receive gratuitously all public documents ordered to be printed, provided that the libraries undertake to preserve them for public use.

OBITUARY.

Mr. Oscar Henry Harpel, an American poet and printer of some reputation, died recently in Louisville, Kentucky. He published several books, among them 'The Poets and Poetry of Printerdom' and 'The Typograph; or, Book of Specimens,' an elaborate and valuable book now out of print, which was awarded a medal and diploma for merit and good taste at the Vienna Exposition in 1873.

The death is recorded on the 17th ult. of M. Charles Blanc, the art critic, author of 'The Grammar of Painting and Engraving,' and elder brother of M. Louis Blanc.

The death is announced of Professor Thomas Edward Cliffe Leslie, the political economist. One of his most important works is his essay on the Philosophical Method of Political Economy, originally published in the Dublin University periodical, called Hermathena, and subsequently reprinted in a collection of his essays on 'Political and Moral Philosophy,' published in 1879 by the Dublin University Press. Mr. Leslie had for many years entertained the design of treating the whole field of economics from the historical point of view in a complete treatise. Unfortunately, the MS. which he had prepared was lost by a singular accident while he was travelling on the Continent in 1872. He had since striven, in spite of failing health, to reproduce and complete his work, and an article on 'The History and Future of Interest and Profit,' which appeared in a recent number of the Fortnightly Review, is understood to be a specimen of the treatise. It shows that a most learned and attractive work has been lost by the premature death which we are recording. One of the most pleasing of all Mr. Leslie's articles is the biographical sketch of his friend Léonce de Lavergne which he contributed to the Fortnightly Review of February 1881.

Mr. Richard Kippist, who for more than half-a-century had been librarian of the Linnean Society, died at Chelsea on the 14th ult., aged seventy-one.

Mr. Richard Brinsley Knowles, only surviving son of the dramatist James Sheridan Knowles, died suddenly on the 28th ult., at his residence, near Regent's Park. He was born at Glasgow in 1820, for some years studied law in the Middle Temple, and was called to the Bar. His natural tastes, however, inclined towards literature, and in 1845 he produced a omedy—'The Maiden Aunt'—at the Haymarket Theatre, the chief parts in which were borne by Farren and Mrs. Glover. From that time Mr. Knowles had been chiefly a diligent contributor to many leading journals and reviews. In 1871 his historical attainments, added to his literary power, led to his engagement under the Royal Commission on Historical Manuscripts, and, in his capacity as inspector of family muniments, many valuable manuscript collections, chiefly belonging to Catholic families, were entrusted to his examination. A mong these may be named the collections of the Marquis of Bute, the Earl of Denbigh, the Earl of Abburnham, and Colonel Towneley.

TRADE CHANGES.

Messrs. Taylor Brothers, of Leeds, in order to facilitate their largely increasing London trade, have opened an office at 6 Foster Lane, Cheapside.

The bookselling, stationery, and fancy trade carried on by Mr. C. Hull, Kimbolton, successfully, for more than forty years, has lately been transferred to Mrs. H. Pratt.

We have to chronicle an important event in the annals of the trade. We refer to the establishment in London of an agency for a South African publishing firm. Mr. J. C. Juta, jun., in conjunction with Mr. J. L. Heelis, who has been for more than 20 years at the head of the foreign house of Messrs. Longmans & Co., has established a South African Agency at St. Bride's Avenue, Fleet Street. The new firm will not only act as agents to the well-known house of J. C. Juta, Capetown, but will also seek to develop an independent business, although making a specialty of South African Literature.

Mr. William Pring, of 15 High Street, Mold, after 40 years of successful trading, has retired, and disposed of his bookselling, stationery, and printing business, to Mr. Thomas Yorke, of Stokesley. The valuation was made by Messrs. Holmes & Son.

Mr. Samuel Collier, of Castle Hill, Windsor, has recently disposed of his business to Mr. Hemming, of London. Mr. Collier purchased the business about 20 years ago from the late Mr. Burgiss Brown, who was there 35 years. This business formerly belonged, we believe, to the late Mr. Charles Knight. The valuation was made by Messrs. Holmes & Son.

BOOKS RECEIVED:

- From Messrs. Bemrose & Sons.—'Kilkee.' By Eliza Kerr. A narrative which, the authoress, in the preface, tells us, is 'a true description of village life on the west coast of Ireland, with the dialect and manners of the inhabitants thereof. The story shows the influence exerted by a Sunday school boy over the people of Kilkee, and it will form a very suitable book for a prize for elder boys or for a village library. It has a frontispiece which might with advantage have been better drawn.
- From the same.—'Shadows of Good Things to Come; or, the Gospel in Ruth.' By C. F. Hull. Few of the Old Testament narratives have a stronger attraction than that of Ruth, and yet it is true that the book is, as the writer of this volume terms it, 'a somewhat obscure portion of Scripture.' He treats of Ruth in Moab; Naomi: Orpah; Ruth, a pilgrim; Ruth in Bethlehem; Ruth, a gleaner; Boaz, a kinsman; the betrothal; Boaz, a redeemer; and Ruth, a wife; thus covering all the its People, based on a four years' residence in that country, including travels into the remotest parts of the interior.' By William Gray Dixon, M.A. The author of this work was formerly one of the professors of the Imperial College of Engineering at Tokiyo, and in this capacity had numerous opportunities of studying the people as they are, not only when he was living in their towns, but also when engaged on professional tours into the interior. The extent of the journeys thus made by Mr. Dixon may be estimated from the fact that he travelled altogether nearly 4,000 miles by land and sea. The illustrations, which are numerous, and add largely to the value of the work, are all original, having been copied either from photographs, Japanese paintings, or from the author's own sketches. The graphic and easy style in which the narrative flows on makes a remarkably pleasant reading, and it conveys an immense mass of information in a very attractive form.

From Messrs. Hodder & Stoughton.- 'Three Hundred Outlines of Sermons on the New Testapoints of the characteristic history.

From Messrs. Browne & Nolan, Dublin.— 'Select Essays of Elia,' with Notes. This is a striking instance of the advantages enjoyed by the youth of the present day in the numerous books of education which crowd about them. The book is a crown octavo of nearly 200 pages. Perhaps a quarter of the space is occupied by notes. Mr. Briscoe, the editor, is not merely explanatory, but brings apt quotation from celebrated authors to illustrate the text. Let us give two specimens:

Alice W — has been identified by Mr. Carew Hazlitt as Alice Winn, Lamb's first love.

Lethe. In the beautiful Grecian mythology there were five rivers said to be in hell; Lethe or forgetfulness was one of them :

Far off from these a slow and ellent stream, Lethe, the river of oblivion, rolls Her watery labyrinth; whereof who drinks, Forthwith his former state and being forgets — Forgets both joy aud grief, pleasure and pain. Paradise Lost.

The reader will see that the notes are full of interesting matter. It may be worth pointing out, as this edition of Elia may very likely be reprinted, that Ravenna, where Dante died, has two 'n's.'

From Mr. James Gemmell (Edinburgh).—"The Land of the Morning: an Account of Japan and ment.' This volume, which forms the first 1850e of the Publishers' Clerical Library,' is intended apparently for the use of preachers of all Christian bodies, for there is no ecclesiasticism' in the outlines, and sermons based upon them might be preached from any pulpit in which the appeal to the Bible is the acknowledged standard of teach ing. We are not told whether the outlines an from the authors' pens, or even whether they have received the imprimatur of those whise names they bear; but in any case it may be presumod that they are faithful rescripts of the discourses of which they give the main arguments The list of preachers forms a perfect pulpit galaxy, and includes prelates and priests, Baptist and Methodists, and members, in fast of nearly every 'persuasion.' Thus we find the Archbisho? of Canterbury, the Bishops of Ripon, Liverpool, Peterborough, Durham, and Excter; lies Stanley, Vaughan, Goulburn, Church, and Payne Smith; Canons Barry, Farrar, Westcoit, Ruos-Little; and, among the Nonconformists, Dr. Saphir, Mr. Spurgeon, Mr. Samuel Martin, Dr. Parker, Dr. Morley Punshon, Dr. Oswald Dyke America, too, is represented by some of its for most preachers, including Mr. Philip Brooks, and there are some outlines from the Scuttish pulpt The Outline, as a rule, fills a page. It would perhaps, be difficult to over-estimate the use ness of such a book, especially to young preachers; for, while it leaves them ample room for originality of treatment, it gives them a firm and logical basis to work upon.

- From Messrs. W. & A. K. Johnston.- 'Scientific Industries Explained, showing how some of the important articles of commerce are made.' By Alexander Watt. Vol. II. We were able, if we remember rightly, to speak in high terms of the first volume of Mr. Watt's useful work, and it is a satisfactory justification of the praise we awarded to his useful little book that he has been asked to extend it, and to treat of a further series of the industries which can lay claim to the title of 'scientific.' In the present volume he deals, among other things, with the electric light, gases, cheese, preservation of food, scientific agriculture, stained glass, the telephone, electrotyping, artificial manures, and in all cases his descriptions are admirably clear and concise, while in many of the articles diagrams are added in order to make the various processes plain to the uninitiated. To those who have no scientific encyclopædia at hand, such a work as this will be most useful; for in days like these, when the application of scientific knowledge to the uses of every-day life is met with on every side, ignorance means, in reality, incapacity to understand not only the inventions which we see around us, but the newspaper articles in which they are constantly referred to.
- From Messrs. Kegan Paul, Trench, & Co.-'Myth and Science :' an Essay by Tito Vignoli. The 'International Scientific Series,' to which this work belongs, is becoming a valuable library in itself, the present being its thirty-seventh volume. The author first discusses the ideas and sources of myth, animal sensation and perception, human sensation and perception, his deduction from the promises which he lays down being that 'it is impossible that man should have had any primitive intuition of a perfectly rational and universal Idea, since his intelligence is so constituted that it is slowly developed from the animal condition into a humanity which is mythically reflex, and he rises from the single to the specific, from phenomena to the type which more or less the fermented wine described in the Bible as a poison and the unfermented wine which is declared to be not a poisonous but a nutritious and wholesome beverage which 'maketh glad the heart of man,' and under the latter head he classes the wine made by Christ at the marriage feast of Cana. On the practical question Dr. Kerr states that the result of his investigations is that grape juice can be preserved unfermented and unintoxicating by a variety of processes, some of which have been, and still are, in vogue in Eastern countries, and he says he is using such wine now, made by himself three years ago. The book closes with an appeal to the clergy to use unfermented wine for sacramental purposes.

n en anna 1997 anna 1 I Anna 1997 anna 1997

- From Messrs. Sampson Low, Marston, & Co.-'American Men of Letters.' Vol. I. Washington Irving. By Charles Dudley Warner, author of 'My Summer in a Garden,' 'In the Levant,' &c. Mr. Warner opens the 'American Mon of Letters' series, which has been projected in order to do for American literary history what Mr. Morley is doing for his literary countrymen in the 'English Men of Letters' series, and he opens it well. If there over was an American writer whose position is fully determined, it is Washington Irving, for though his reputation may not stand as high now as it did thirty or forty years ago, it is of a kind that cannot pass away until the taste for quiet humour, unaffected pathos, and, above all, pure English, shall be extinct. There is a quality in this work which will endure when greater work is forgotten. It was a happy thought, therefore, in Mr. Warner, who edits the series, to begin with a monograph on this favourite writer, with whom his genius as a humourist has so much in common, whom he understands thoroughly as well as heartily, and whom his critical tact will not allow him to overpraise. As biography, it relates the story of Irving's successful and beautiful life with admirable fitness; as literary history, it indicates, with rare discrimination the real value and charm of Irving's works, and their honourable place in American literature.
- From the same.---' Low's Handbook to the Charities of London for 1882.' Edited by Charles Mackeexactly corresponds to them.' To quote him again, he concludes that 'the evolution of myth went through the regular process, by which it was formulated and simplified until it was resolved into all the sciences and rational arts, and was thus transformed into a positive science, passing through an ulterior stage of myth and science before it took the definitive form of a purely intellectual conception.' So he proceeds to argue that 'the problem of myth, which includes every achievement of the human understanding and fills all sociology, is transformed into the problem of civilisation.' The learning of the author is evidenced in every page, and his modesty as a disputant is a pleasant feature in his interesting treatise.

From the National Temperance Publication Depôt.—'Wines: Scriptural and Ecclesiastical.' By Norman Kerr, M.D., F.L.S. Total abstainers may perhaps accuse Dr. Kerr of adopting a paradox on his title-page when he describes wine as being 'Scriptural,' and it may therefore be well to explain, for the benefit of those who are ignorant of his adhesion to the total abstinence platform, that the Doctor only implies his intention to trace out the references to wine found in the Bible and the character of the liquid thus described. He draws a clear distinction between son. A new edition of the original 'Handbook to the Charities of London,' first published with the approval of the Prince Consort, and now issued with the direct sanction of Her Majesty the Queen. It supplies detailed information as to the objects, income, officers, bankers, &c. of all the principal philanthropic and religious institutions of the Metropolis and its suburbs, and in the preface the Editor gives a brief summary of the movements in the charitable world during the past year. Writing of the most noteworthy characteristics of modern philanthropic effort, Mr. Mackeson says:—

The Government of the day has naturally, but wisely, resolved to turn the public impulse to account by providing for the saving of pence through the agency of the Post Office Banks, and it only needs an extension and development of post-office banking and stockbroking, supported externally by the advocacy of religious and other public teachers, to effect a very material change for the better in the habits of a large section of the people. But while the State is thus fulfilling one of its highest functions by stepping in to act as the banker of all whose savings are too small in amount to attract the attention of the financiers of Europe, societies and private individuals are going further by supplying young men and women with those aids to thrift in the shape of healthy and economical lodgings and food which are so essential as an assistance to all habits of saving and principles of self-respect. The houses opened by several societies for the reception of boarders engaged during the day meet a want in our social system which has too long existed; and scarcely less valuable, and certainly in no degree less essential to the

The Publishers' Circular Feb. 1, 1884 106 WAR, WAVES, and WANDERINGS, Including a Cruise in the 'Lancashire Witch.' F. FRANCIS. BY 2 Vols. crown 8vo. 24s. THE ACADEMY .-. 'The two volumes describing these wanderings are very pleasantly written. The writer (it can be seen) is a man of Jan. 7. ability, who can observe and note well what comes before him.' THE WORLD.—'Lively memories of pleasant people and places (reminiscences of garrison life), and rare accounts of adventure, make an agreeable Dec. 28. book (for light reading).' DAILY TELEGRAPH.—' Lively descriptions of camp existence, &c., &c., agreeably fill page after page. . . . A cruise of sufficient extent and Nov. 29. variety to satisfy the cravings of the most restless of sight. seeing modern tourists.' THE FIELD.—' Will be found of interest to many.' Dec. 10. ARMY AND NAVY GAZETTE.—' The author shows that he can be gay as well as grave, and writes with an abundance of wit and humour. He Dec. 17. has written a very entertaining book of travel, and has entitled himself to be regarded as an author of considerable merit.'

DAILY NEWS.—.' The rattling diary or log before us . . . Very readable and Dec. 24. enjoyable for the animal spirits and the capacity for observation and enjoyment of nature they display.'

TRUTH.—' The author, who writes vivaciously and engagingly . . . proceeds to Siam, Jan. 5. of which he has much to say, both novel and interesting. . . . "Doing " Japan, and doing it well, too in the far north discoursing pleasantly of Kodiac, &c. He is a capital guide wherever he goes, and my readers will do well to seek out his acquaintance.'

GRAPHIC.—'A curiously unconventional and Bohemian expedition. . . . Full of Jan. 21. healthy jollity, high spirits, and "go."'

GLASGOW HERALD.—'A series of brightly written sketches, descriptions of scenery, places, &c., penned in a most vivacious style.'

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, & CO.'S NEW LIST.

'Semper aliquid novi ex Africa.'

ASK AT THE LIBRARIES

FOR

THE NEW BOOK OF TRAVEL AND EXPLORATION IN AFRICA.

UGANDA AND THE EGYPTIAN SOUDAN:

An Account of Travel in Eastern and Equatorial Africa. Including a Residence of Two Years at the Court of King Mtesa, and a Description of the Slave Districts of Bahr-el-Ghazel and Darfour. With a New Map of 1,200 miles in these Provinces; numerous Illustrations, and Anthropological, Meteorological, and Geographical Notes, By R. W. FELKIN, F.R.G.S., and C. T. WILSON, M.A. Óxon., F.R.G.S. 2 vols crown 8vo. cloth, 28s.

The book includes Mr. Wilson's journey from Zanzibar to Rubaga. He is the first European who has crossed the Victoria Nyanza, having made three voyages from Ntebbi to Kagei; and he has coasted its western shores twice.

Mr. Felkin reached the Lake by the Nile route, after having been blocked up for forty days in its pestilential marshes; he visited the Albert Lake and the Murchison Falls, and passed through Unyora. He was the first Englishman to see the two Great Lakes. He resided for some months in Uganda, as Mtesa's physician; and, together with Mr. Wilson, brought to England King Mtesa's ambassadors to Her Majesty. On their return journey, they traversed the important countries of the Bahr-el-Ghazel and Darfour Provinces, marching 2,000 miles in eighty-six days. During this journey he carefully constructed the above map.

MAGYARLAND.

A Narrative of Travels through the Snowy Carpathians and Great Alföld of the Magyar. By a Fellow of the CARPATHIAN Society (Diploma of 1881), and Author of 'The Indian Alps.' 2 vols. royal 8vo. cloth extra, with about 120 Woodcuts from the Author's own Sketches and Drawings, 38s. [Ready.

FROM 'THE TIMES,' JAN. 26.

'We have the liveliest recollection of the pleasure with which we read "The Indian Alps." It is therefore, with pleased surprise that we find ourselves traversing the highlands and lowlands of Hungary under the guidance of the same enthusiastic mountaineer. Her book is dedicated to "all who love mountains, by one who worships them." There are many worshippers of mountains, we believe, but it is well, as a rule, that their worship should be of "the silent sort," as it would be difficult for them to render an intelligent and articulate reason for their adoration. The authoress of these two volumes is a rare exception to the rule; she is able to put her enthusiasm into contagious words. To most English readers her account of what is to be seen among the Carpathians will be a revelation; indeed, it is probably only their distance, and the comparative difficulty of access, that prevent them rivalling the Alps for mountaineering. . . . Every page of these two volumes has a charm quite independent of the novelty of the subject. We have indicated that the authoress is a born artist both with her pen and pencil; and through all there is a pervading sympathy with life in every guise, such a tender eye for human joy and sorrow, so much true pathos and genuine humour, and such perfect skill in grouping, that the work stands as far above the ordinary tourist's narrative, as a picture gallery does above an atlas. "Magyarland" is certain to become a permanent favourite."

INTERNATIONAL LAW. By W. E. HALL, M.A., Barrister-

at-Law. Demy Svo. cloth, 21s.

'A complete treatise on public international law, ranking in extent and thoroughness by the side of Wheaton, Phillimore, or Twiss. We have no hesitation in saying that in merit also it takes its place in the front rank of those which have been written in English on either side of the Atlantic, and that there is none which can be more recommended either to students, to statesmen, or to such of the general public as wish to be fully equipped for forming an opinion on the international questions in which England is from time to time involved.'-ACADEMY.

POETRY. Being Lectures delivered at ASPECTS OF

Oxford. By Principal SHAIRP, Professor of Poetry, Oxford. Crown 8vo. cloth, 10s. 6d.

SHORTLY.

Professor SKEAT'S ETYMOLOGICAL DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. PART IV., completing the Work. Together with a Concise Etymological Dictionary.

'Its merits are those of laborious and conscientiously accurate research, guided by profound learning and never-failing sagacity.'--- H. SWEET, in the ACADEMY.

'When completed, it will be honourably distinguished as the first thorough-going attempt to write so well and accurately, that little will remain for his successors but to fill in his omissions, and correct his occasional errors.'-ENGLISH INDEPENDENT.

'A work of enormous and self-denying labour, and quite unusual erudition, which, if it ends as it begins, should be a national possession -DAILY NEWS.

The Religious Tract Society's NEW BOOKS.

Footprints of Italian Reformers. By the Rev. JOHN STOUGHTON, D.D., Author of Homes and Haunts of Luther' &c. With fine Illustrations. 9s. cloth boards, gilt edges.

'Thanks to Dr. Stoughton's diligence as a pilgrim, and his industrious research as a scholar, we have here a most interesting and instructive volume. Where a hundred have heard of Luther and Melanchthon and Zuingle, not one knows anything of Aonio Paleario, and Carnesecchi, and Valles; and we are much obliged to the zeal and industry which have put together this memorial of them.'

SPECTATOB.

The style is simple, and in parts not ungraceful; the illustrations various, and sometimes imposing.'-THE TIMES. 'The Society, in all their excellent series of "Pictures" (which now has included no inconsiderable part of the world), has not given to the public a better executed or more interesting volume than this.'--SPECTATOR.

Past and Present in the East. By the Rev. HARRY JONES, M.A., Prebendary of St. Paul's Cathedral. With fine Engravings by Edward Whymper. 53. cloth, gilt edges.

'A parative told in a lively, pleasant, chit-chat fashion, by the versatile and much-travelled rector of St. George'sin-the-East. The mention of Mr. Jones's name will be a sufficient endorsement of his book to many readers."

ENGLISH CHURCHMAN.

Winter Pictures, by Poet and Artist. Profusely Illustrated in the finest style of Wood Engraving. By EDWARD WHYMPER. 4to. 6s. cloth boards. gilt edges.

'The wood engravings by Mr. Edward Whymper are designed in accordance with the subject and tone of the poems selected by the editor, whose choice does credit to his taste and judgment.'--ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS.

The Great Problem; or, Christianity as it is. By a STUDENT OF SCIENCE. Crown 8vo. 5s. 6d. cloth boards.

'Forms one of the most conclusive arguments we have ever seen in defence of the Christian faith.'-EDINBURGH DAILY REVIEW.

'It will prove useful to many whose faith has been nnsettled by scientific speculations and materialistic criticism."

CHRISTIAN WORLD PULPIT. Readings on the Gospel according to St. Mark. By the Rev. F. BOURDILLON, M.A., Author of 'Readings on the Gospel of St. John' &c. Crown 8vo. 4s. cloth boards.

- The Truth of the Christian Religion, as Established by the Miracles of Christ. By BABOO RAM CHANDRA BOSE. Crown 8vo. 3s. cloth boards.

The author, who was a convert of the Free Church of Scotland Institution in Calcutta, founded by Dr. Duff, has for the last five or six years been engaged in lecturing, in connection with the American Methodist Episcopal Church, to the educated natives of Northern India on the claims of Christ and the Gospel.

From the Call to the Glory; or, Some Names of Christ's People. A Bible Study. By SARAH GERALDINA STOCK. Small 8vo. 1s. 4d. cloth boards.

'This is a little book upon which we put our own special mark. It will suggest quite a lot of sermons to a thoughtful minister who loves the unadulterated Gospel. A chapter read at the college was received with enthusiasm by our men.'-Rev. C. H. SPURGEON, in Sword and Trowel.

Free to Serve. By Evelyn R. GARBATT. With Engravings. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d. cloth boards.

'Illustrates some of the difficulties of domestic service in a way that is worthy of consideration on the part of mistresses, and points to that higher service in which all should seek to enter.'-ROCK.

- Without Intending It. By GEORGE E. SARGENT, Author of 'The Story of a City Arab' &c. With Engravings. Imp. 16mo. 5s. cloth gilt.
- Through the Linn; or, MISS Temple's Wards. By AGNES GIBERNE. With Engravings. 3s. cloth gilt.
- Cobwebs and Cables. By HESBA STRETTON, Author of 'Jessica's First Prayer,' 'A Thorny Path,' &c. With Engravings by Gordon Brown. Imp. 16mo. 5s. cloth gilt.
 - 'Sins are at first like cobwebs, at last like cables.'

'One of the best stories which this gifted writer has produced. One's interest is awakened with the first sentences and is held fast throughout the book.'-CHRISTIAN WORLD.

Lost in Egypt. A Story from Life. By Miss M. L. WHATELY. With Engravings. 4s. cloth gilt. 'Miss Whately, who knows Egypt and its population as familiarly as the "lady of all work" knows her own village, has communicated some of her knowledge in this charming little book, which we think no one can fail to find interesting, from the drawing-room to the parish school.'-GUARDIAN.

'We are greatly pleased with this book. It is plain, yet ingenious; novel, without being strained or far-fetched; fresh, direct, earnest, and scholarly withal-though the author is content to use the results of his scholarship without parading its methods.'-LITERARY WORLD.

Cousin Mabel's Sketches of Chamacter. By Miss E. J. WHATELY. 4s. cloth boards, red edges.

"The author of the " Life of Archbishop Whately" takes a high rank among the able and useful religious writers of the day.'-CHURCHMAN.

The Resurrection of our Lord Jesus Christ, an Historical Fact. With an Examination of Naturalistic Hypotheses. By the Rev. JOHN KENNEDY, D.D. Crown 8vo. 2s. 6d. cloth boards.

We have here, brought into a comparatively small compass, the Scripture testimony to the central fact of the resurrection, but every sentence tells in a way that shows how succinctness of statement may be compatible with the utmost chearness.'--EDINBURGH DAILY REVIEW.

The Christian Garland. A Popular Exposition of 2 Peter i. 5-7. By the Rev. F. A. C. LILLINGSTON, M.A., Vicar of St. Barnabas, Holloway. Fcp. 8vo. 2s. cloth boards.

A thoroughly readable book, in which a good deal of insight is given into the real meaning of words which too often are glibly passed over.'-ECCLESIASTICAL GAZETTE.

Bible Pictures and Stories. With Twenty-four Large Coloured Plates and Forty Vignettes. With letterpress in large type. Interleaved with white paper for copying the pictures in pencil or crayon. Handsomely bound, 4s. cloth gilt.

W. A. MANSELL & CO.'s Lists and Books of Patterns will be ready shortly.

The Trade are respectfully invited to consider these publications, which, in addition to very excellent designs in Chromo-Lithography and Photography, consist of work positively unique in this connection, and of the most beautiful and attractive kinds. Liberal Terms to Wholesale Shippers. Sample Parcels or Indents to fixed amount most carefully filled; and the Cards of all other First Makers selected tastefully, with judgment and experience, and supplied on the best terms to orders accompanied by remittance or by order to pay in London against delivery.

The great success attained by W. A. Mansell & Co.'s Cards for 1881-2, and the very flattering manner in which they have been noticed by the Press, encourage them to pursue the same principles as heretofore and to extend considerably the range of their productions.
